At Christmas time there is no more popular or seemingly appropriate little poem than that by James Henry Leigh Hunt entitled "About Ben Adhem." By request we again print it as follows:

"About Ben Adhem (may his tribe increase):
Awoke one night from a deep dream of peace,
And saw, within the moonlight in his room,
Making it rich, and like a lily in bloom,
An Angel writing in a book of gold:
Exceeding peace had made Ben Adhem hold,
And to the presence in the room he said,
'What writest thou?' The Vision raised its head,
And with a look made all of sweet accord,
Answered, 'The names of those who love the Lord.'
'And is mine one?' said Abou. 'Nay not so.'
Replied the Angel. Abou spoke more low,
But cheerily still; and said, 'Pray thee then,
Write me as one that loves his fellow man.'
The Angel wrote and vanished. The next night

DOWNING NOT IN ON WITHDRAWAL

'Extremely Disappointed' When Coverdale Gets Out Of Race

Otis Downing, former deputy sheriff for many years under ex-sheriff Milton Coverdale, said yesterday in a statement that he was "extremely disappointed" when Coverdale withdrew from the sheriff's race and that he wanted to assure his friends that he had no part in the decision of the former sheriff to withdraw.

Downing, who had been most active in the campaign of the former sheriff, said he wished particularly to thank those friends of his who had assisted in the campaign and to explain to them his position.

"There have been many rumors concerning the decision of the candidate for sheriff to withdraw from the race," Downing said. "I want it distinctly understood that I had

Truman Holds 'Highly Profitable' Talks With New York Crime Buster

By Willard H. Mobley
Washington, Dec. 15.—President Truman held a long "highly profitable" talk today with U. S. Judge Thomas F. Murphy, his reputed choice to run an administration cleanup, but delayed any announcement of plans at least until Monday.

Murphy himself, reached by reporters after the unusually secret White House session, would only say that "matters of interest to the country" were discussed and that he may see the president again.

He would not say whether he had accepted any assignment, nor whether the talk was about corruption in government. Neither would he go beyond the "very profitable" description of the meeting.

But the jurist's answers to side-issue questions left open broad inferences that he is in on the planning, at least, of a housecleaning. He said he and Charles Murphy (no relation), White House counsel, discussed a "plan." And he said the answer on whether he would have to resign from the

Red Feather Leaders Rap Major Stratford

Community Chest officials joined the chairman of the Salvation Army board of directors yesterday in criticizing Major Charles Stratford, local Salvation Army head, for what amounted to a "breach of contract" in that he opened a separate drive for funds through the mail.

Evans Ethridge and A. B. Clarkson, co-chairmen of the Community Chest's Red Feather drive, and Curtis Nichols, Salvation Army board of director's chairman, assailed Stratford's action as "unfortunate" in that it violated the contract which the Salvation Army and all other agencies have with the Community Chest.

Nichols, in criticizing Stratford, said the major "acted without authorization, consent and without notifying the board" when he mailed a large number of letters to local residents asking individual help for the Salvation Army.

He said Stratford's action was "contrary to set procedures of the organization."

Nichols, in further condemning Stratford's letters, said the Salvation Army had an agreement with the Community Chest that only certain solicitations should be made and that he was sure Stratford knew of the agreement when he mailed the letters.

Stratford, Nichols continued, also knew he should have had approval

Shreveport, La., Dec. 15.—Judge Robert M. Taliaferro, presiding judge of the second Louisiana court of appeals here, was fatally injured in a traffic accident near Coushatta at 4 p. m. today, less than five hours after he had sworn in his successor in Shreveport.

Mrs. Taliaferro's condition was listed as serious. Miss Doshier suffered from shock and was reported not seriously injured.

U. N. Standing Pat On Demand For List Of Allied War Prisoners, Where They Are Being Held; Want All Returned

Munsan, Korea, Sunday, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Allied armistice negotiators are refusing any more bargaining offers until the Reds come up with information on prisoners and a better truce supervision proposal.

The United Nations is standing pat on a demand for a list of Allied prisoners and where they are held.

"We want all of the men back," said Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, U. N. command spokesman. "We don't want some of them to wind up in slave labor camps in China or Korea or anywhere else."

Nuckols added that there can be no progress on armistice supervision discussions until the Communists offer "a new proposal, better than the one they came up with yesterday."

He said the only thing the truce negotiators agreed upon at Saturday's Panmunjom meetings was to meet again today at 11 a. m. (9 p. m., E. S. T., Saturday).

The Communists want agreement now on their proposal for an all-for-all exchange of prisoners. They insist that such things as lists and locations of prisoners are secondary "technical details."

The Reds also have refused to permit international Red Cross in-

This statement was made by Burt Sperry, chairman of the Ouachita parish Democratic executive committee, Saturday. He stated that he was in communication with the attorney general, but that it might be too late to keep the candidate's name off the ballot.

Mr. Sperry further stated that he plans to send information in writing to those in charge at each polling place asking that they inform voters that there is to be no race for the office of sheriff, which now will be filled by the incumbent Bailor Grant, uncontested. In case any do vote for Coverdale, those at the polls will be informed not to tabulate those votes.

The letter that was sent to Mr. Sperry by Mr. Coverdale last Monday was as follows:

December 12, 1951

Mr. Burt W. Sperry, Chairman
Ouachita Parish Democratic Executive Committee,
711 Ouachita National Bank Building
Monroe, Louisiana
Dear Mr. Sperry:

This letter is written for the purpose of officially notifying you of my withdrawal as a candidate for sheriff of Ouachita parish subject to the Democratic primary election to be held January 15, 1952.

Preacher Incubator

Preachers, pine trees and baby chickens may not seem to be much alike but they have at least one thing in common—all three thrive on human encouragement. The element of human sympathy and support causes each of them to be produced in vastly greater numbers, to reach earlier maturity and to be of superior quality.

The Louisiana Forestry Association says that four times as many pine trees for pulpwood and timber can be produced on a specified number of acres if human aid is given as when nature is allowed to take its course unaided, even if no planting is done. If brambles and underbrush are kept out of the way and destruction is prevented, the trees will seed themselves and produce four times the ordinary yield.

Back in the days when the old hen had to do all her own hatching and the chicks had to scratch for themselves, baby chicks faced a precarious future. Some farmers figured they were doing all right if half the eggs placed under the hen hatched and if half of the chicks hatched were raised. Chicks that were raised compared about as favorably with the present "milk-fed" chickens as does a razorback hog with a prize-winning Poland China or Duroc Jersey porker. Now, with incubators, brooders and scientifically prepared feeds, representing human encouragement, hundreds of millions of chickens are produced, with the result that one of the finest of all foods is readily available to mankind at a reasonable cost.

In West Monroe there is a church that has virtually served as an incubator and brooder for young preachers for many years lending encouragement and support. Many other churches also are doing this type of work but few, if any, have been able to establish better records than the Ridge Avenue Baptist Church.

Within the last eight years Ridge Avenue Baptist Church of West Monroe has helped many young men to enter the ministry, a number to enter special Christian work as gospel musicians and educational directors and one to foreign missions.

Three of these young ministers are now in Louisiana College and also full time pastors. They are Rev. Charles Holstead, pastor of Point Baptist Church, Union parish, Rev. E. E. "Buddy" Taylor, pastor of Hudson Creek Baptist Church near Alexandria, and Rev. W. A. "Dub" Massey, pastor of Spencer and Mt. Patrick Baptist Churches, Union parish.

Another young preacher now in college from this church is Rev. Louis Wilhite, attending Mississippi College and pastor of the Cypress Baptist Church, Ouachita parish.

Rev. Cecil Avery, pastor of the Cheniere Baptist Church and Rev. Glenn Wright, pastor of the Liberty Baptist Church, both in Ouachita parish, were also licensed and ordained by the Ridge Avenue Church.

Rev. Huey Meador, now serving in the U. S. Marines in California and assisting in chaplain service, Rev. Joe Massey of Clarke College, and Rev. Bernard Utley of Baylor University were licensed as ministers by this church.

Rev. Russell Stellwagen serving now as a foreign missionary in Japan, was licensed, ordained and sent out by the Ridge Avenue Church.

Other special workers who heard and answered the call for special Christian service are William B. "Buddie" Butler, now minister of music and education director of the First Baptist Church, Magee, Miss.; Miss Doris Brown, musician and youth education director of First Baptist Church, West Monroe; Kenneth Adams music director of Trinity Baptist Church, West Monroe, and J. V. Armor, a recent music and educational graduate of the Southwestern Baptist Seminary.

These ministers, musicians, educational directors and missionaries have gone out from this church since April, 1944. Other young ministers who received their first opportunity in the early part of their calling are Rev. Hyran Barefoot, pastor of Goss Baptist Church, Marion county, and student at the New Orleans Baptist Seminary and Rev. Claude H. Fortenberry, recent graduate of Mississippi College and pastor of Fair Park Baptist Church, West Monroe.

The Ridge Avenue Church has licensed and ordained 15 preachers, three gospel musicians, one musician, and youth director and one foreign missionary since 1944.

Bundles For Cuddle?

T. Lamar Caudle, who might well have been named by the late W. C. Fields, has run quite a gamut of interesting activities, both in and out of his former office as assistant attorney general.

About the only thing that has not happened to this unfortunate gentleman is to have someone show up at the congressional hearing with a packet of his letters bound in pink ribbon. If this should ever occur, we are sure of only one thing. They would be addressed to "Cuddles" Caudle.

There's A Law

During the excitement, not to say consternation, accompanying disclosures in Washington of bribery, fixing, influence peddling and every hue of shady conniving somebody took time to look up the law in the matter. Quite a law it is too. It not only provides penalties for those who accept bribes, but it is also a bit tough on those who offer to pay them. Considering these miscreants, the law says:

"Whoever promises, offers or gives any money, or thing of value, or makes conveyance of anything of value to any officer or employee or person acting for or in behalf of the United States or any department or agency thereof, or any officer or person acting for or in behalf of a member of congress or any committee of either house, is subject to a fine of not more than three times the amount of such money or value of anything given, or imprisonment of not more than three years, or both."

So far only those who have accepted bribes have been forced out of office or are under suspicion. For every bribe-taker there is a briber. Why should not some of the clever people who paid for special privileges, tax exemptions or government contracts be made to pay the penalty?

The legal department of the government is still dragging its feet in moving against those who accepted bribes, and seems to ignore the bribers entirely.

Their Star

As the pre-Christmas season draws down to the focal point for which everybody has been hastily preparing, the city is colorful and exceedingly busy. Visually, vocally and emotionally, Christmas is now an actuality for every man, woman and child hereabouts.

Everybody with eyes can see it. All who can hear can catch the sounds of happiness everywhere. And, what is more important, every individual whose emotional equipment has not been dulled by a welter of woes or by coddled cynicism, can feel it.

Christmas, most of all, is a feeling. The predominant emotion of that first Christmas in far-off Judea was joy. Happily through the centuries that feeling has remained the essence of Christmas. Wry ruminants bewail the barker which often influences the giving custom. That is only a fancy wrought of brooding.

The Star of Bethlehem is about to shine again for millions. Its glory will not come from the sheen or rich raiment or the sparkle of costly gems. It will be borne on the joy-propelled rays of children's eyes, or upon the gleams of gratitude that come from the souls of those for whom life, in coming days, will be brightened by the thoughtful and the unselfish in this thoughtless and selfish world.

In Washington With BASCOM TIMMONS

Washington expects that the next big blow off, hinted at frequently in recent months in connection with other investigations, will tear apart the office of the alien property custodian, now under the supervision of the attorney general.

Already mentioned as receiving huge fees in alien property cases are former Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson, whose law firm Sen. Alexander Wiley (Rep., Wis.) says received $589,985 in fees from two companies seized by the government in World War II and William Siskind, New York attorney and brother of Max Siskind, a former law partner of William M. Boyle, Jr., ex-chairman of the Democratic national committee. Questions from the Hoyer subcommittee about Boyle's agreement with Siskind on division of fees at the time their partnership was dissolved drew answers from Boyle which were challenged by the St. Louis Post Dispatch and may have had something to do with Boyle's resignation.

This inquiry may not be as sensational as the probe of the bureau of Internal Revenue, which has not been completed but will eventually bring out many questionable practices, if not actual fraud and misrepresentations. In the alcohol tax unit of the bureau. Whispers from reliable sources say that several large and a number of small distilleries will be involved.

The impression grows here that the terrific housecleaning in the revenue bureau, which will result in more resignations and firings before it is through, will result in one of the greatest backfires in U. S. political history. If this is true, the Democratic party will inevitably be burned. In fact, some of its key figures are already being singed. Attorney Gen. J. Howard McGrath of Rhode Island is No. 1 on this list. Secretary of the Treasury John Wesley Snyder of Missouri, President Truman's close personal friend, is probably runner up.

It may not be entirely fair to criticize these two gentlemen for following routine practice, but their letters of last July to the senate committee for proposals for improvement of ethical standards in the federal government are evidence that both have been quite smug in their attitude toward their own territories.

McGrath told the committee that "It thus becomes apparent that, under prevailing procedures in such cases, the opportunity for the exercise of any improper influence by one or more individuals, even if they desired, is reduced almost to an impossibility."

At that time, of course, Asst. Gen. Theron Lamar Caudle was carrying on with Frank Nathan, the Pittsburgh racketeer, and indulging other stupidity of which no law enforcement officer should be guilty and tax fixers were hanging around the department of justice, as they apparently have done for several years past, when they should have been escorted to the door and ordered not to come back.

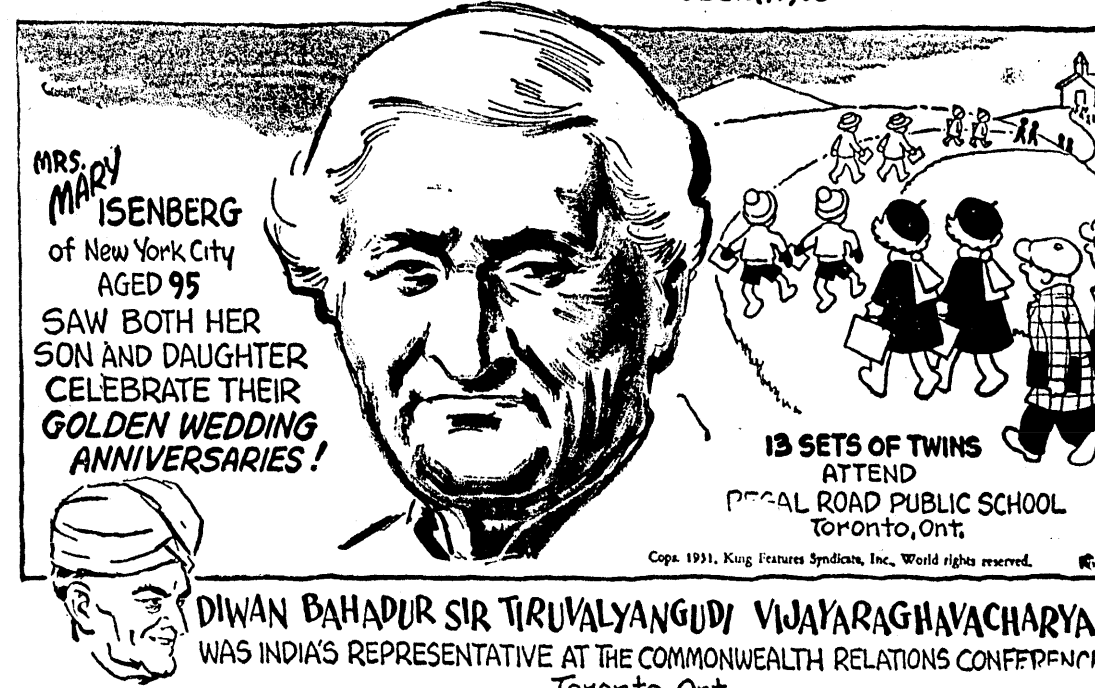

Under his department is the bureau of Internal Revenue which at that time was engaged in the most futile cover up program in all its history, with several big city collectors offices already under investigation and John B. Dunlap, the present commissioner, then head of the Dallas office, already on the job as a special investigator. Reporters who cover the bureau of Internal Revenue, and who had regarded it as a routine run where they got a story of even ordinary importance only a few times a year were beginning to detect a slight odor. It probably came from the desks of a few top officials, who evidently thought themselves rather clever to have put General Dunlap on the trail of racketeer tax evaders, while they carefully cleaned up as much as they could preparatory to departure.

Now there is every prospect that federal employees, forbidden to engage in politics under the Hatch act (it says there) will be further circumscribed by another set of regulations which will provide for dismissal upon proof that (1) they have engaged in business transactions or private arrangements for personal profit which accrues from or is based on the individual's official position, or his authority or confidential information (2) they have accepted any gifts, favor or service from any official or organization with which the individual transacts business for the government (3) they have discussed future employment outside the government with any person with whom official business is pending (4) they have indulged valuable commercial or economic information of a confidential character to unauthorized persons or released it in advance of its authorized release date or (5) they have become unduly involved through frequent social contacts — luncheons, dinner parties, etc. — with persons outside the government.

Those recommendations, long pondered by a committee headed by Sen. Paul Douglas (Dem.-Ill.), who has tilted for sometime with President Truman over three federal judgeships in Chicago, will be reported early in 1952, and instead of being discussed and laid aside, as once seemed to be the schedule, the prospect now is that they will be adopted prayerfully, in the form of legislation with the overwhelming support of both Democrats and Republicans — the former hoping to get their party off the hook, the latter wondering whether the new code can be sustained if the G. O. P. should come into power.

Truman Sensing DOWN SOUTH ISOLATIONISM

Looking into the days ahead, I can very well see where isolationism, so-called, may be thrust upon us here in the United States of America. It won't make any difference then whether we want it or not; we'll have it just the same.

Why do I think this may happen? One, because many nations supposedly "on our side" are going to get tired of the United States and Russia both figuratively and literally "rattling atom bombs" at each other, and are going to refuse to have any part in the argument.

Two, because we have taken the worst possible way of building up friends among the "free" nations of the world; that is, by doling out billions of dollars in money and goods to these nations. There is perhaps no better way of losing a friend than by stopping a policy of continued loans or subsidies or gifts after it has once been started.

Three, we can't continue pouring out our resources gratis forever without exhausting the resources and destroying our economy. When we do stop our "hand-outs," I feel quite sure we will find that we are at the same time cutting the tie that binds us to our "allies."

And my own opinion is that the sooner this sort of isolationism is thrust upon us the better; that it would be the best thing that could happen — both to us and to the cause of freedom in the world.

When it does happen, it will clear the air of all sham and deceit and hypocrisy. We will know then that whatever allies we have are our real friends and interested in the same causes we are interested in.

We have been acting too much from "fear" in this country in recent years, when we should have been acting from "courage." There is no reason why this country should fear Russia — or any other nation. We were never fearful when we were a young nation; we have even less reason to be fearful now. If we would only regain the spirit that built this nation, we could devote much of our energy to more constructive purposes.

Reports coming to us constantly, first-hand and through the new channels, indicate we have not built up any friendships among other nations by our "give-away" policy of recent years. They will be our friends on the surface and on paper so long as we do it out — and no longer. There are many in these nations who believe that our foreign-aid policy was devised for, and has worked out mainly to, our own benefit anyway; they believe it was inaugurated to keep our factories in full production, to keep our workers employed, and to keep the profits of trade pouring into our coffers. Illogical as this reasoning is, it is so to them as long as they believe it, and certainly such belief lends no aid to the cause of freedom.

Since we started lend - lease in 1940, we have doled out to the nations of the world approximately $70 billion - about $35 billion of this total since the end of the war. In other words, we are keeping up our foreign-aid at almost the same rate since the war as we did during the war. When we inaugurated Marshall Aid in 1948, it was with the idea that all the economic ills of the favored nations would be cured in five years or less, that there would then be no further need for foreign-aid. Those who knew human nature, much less international finance, knew at the time it would not work out that way; and it is very clear now that it is not working out that way.

Angelo Patri Our Children CHRISTMAS GIFT

Getting the thing a child wants most for Christmas is often a problem. "What shall we give Dick? Last year he got a bicycle, so that's out—" and the whole list of possibilities is gone over and over in hope of finding the one right answer.

I like to think of the traditional Christmas gifts. When the Three Wise Men presented the child the first Christmas gifts ever offered they gave him one for the body, one for the spirit, and one for material use, a very good plan to this day.

The one I always choose first is one for the spirit, a good book. That is the best gift a child of any age can receive. To begin with, all children delight in a story. The one that is told him is wonderful in the telling but when the voice of the story - teller fades out and the child draws a long sigh of contentment, that ends it. When the story is in a book which he can read for himself, he can have that pleasure and profit over and over again.

To a child, a book that he can take up any time he feels like doing so becomes a very personal belonging, much like an intimate friend. In time of distress he can take up his book and forget his troubles. Weary, he can change his thought by opening his book and entering a world of fancy where his spirit moves freely on its wings.

Some children like informative books — how-to-do, how things are made; some like tales of far-off lands; some enjoy historic tales. All like books that free the imagination, with a hint of romance or of fairyland. To each his own at Christmas time.

Some of my favorites, proven through the years to be favorites of all children, are: Treasure Island, Heidi, Kidnapped, Little Women, David Copperfield. Later ones — Tom-Titi of the Iron Hand, The Trumpeter, Seventeen.

For the very young children, Mother Goose comes first and stays longest. Picture books are low priced and lovelier than ever, and there are art books, containing copies of old masters, that are a joy to possess and which will last a lifetime.

Just any book won't do. The right one must be searched for because it has to suit the child's ability to use it, his taste, his interests. The right one will be the finest gift a child can find under the tree Christmas morning. Do remember to get it.

Starting while children are young is the secret of developing the correct routines for successful adulthood. Dr. Patri gives more advice in his leaflet P-14, "Helpful Habits." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to him, c/o this paper, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

"Isolationism" in recent years anyway. A lot of folks seem to think that in order to escape the opprobrium associated with the term that we must continue to give away our resources, we must subordinate our own constitution to a one-world government, we must ally ourselves with any and all sorts of governments just so they profess opposition to Russian communism.

If all these things are required of us to escape the term, then give me isolationism! Actually, there is no validity to any such argument on their part. When we are willing to act cooperatively with other nations of the world in the cause of peace instead of war, that is all that should be asked of us. That we should stand ready to do at any time — and that is not isolationism.

Man Reading the Papers

The president and others in the administration have taken a bold stand in favor of honesty. . . . They are issuing statements attacking grafters in the government and loudly proclaiming that corruption "must be eliminated from public office." . . . That's what they are saying now — after the sizzling headlines burned off their tails.

But the record reveals that it was Mr. Truman who called the investigation of the R. F. C. "asinine." . . . Later he was forced to reorganize the agency and fire its directors. . . . Mr. President then hailed William Boyle's integrity — even after Boyle's peculiar operations were exposed by a senate committee.

The president has tolerated General Vaughan's deep freeze and influence-peddling — and he refused to admit anything was wrong at the Dept. of Internal Revenue (some administration people tried to block the probe) until the flaming facts stained the front pages. Oh, well. Things have to get better. Prices can't get much higher and politicians can't get much lower.

On his return to Washington from Key West, the president told the papers that his return was not dictated by any emergency. . . . That is the trouble with this administration. A six-alarm fire is out of control — but the president doesn't think it's any more dangerous than a hotfoot.

U. S. Attorney - General McGrath informed a graduating class of FBI officers that their jobs are "sacred trusts" and he added: "When a law enforcement officer misapplies the use of his office or performs an act of malfeasance, he breaks down the structure of our society which we have spent twenty centuries in building." . . . Isn't that a Dinger, Mr. President?

A woman by the name of Evelyn Cronin is on trial in Criminal Court, allegedly for stealing some $4,000. . . . But you'd never know it to read the headlines. The state's principal witness, Tallulah Bankhead, apparently is being tried for defense counsel, instead. . . . The indictment charges forgery and embezzlement by Mrs. Cronin and she is either guilty or not guilty. The connection between Tallulah's private life and her maid's indictment for forgery has yet to be explained to this reporter. Everybody knows Tallulah raises hell, but this is the first time it has been seriously urged that that gives anybody a defense for allegedly raising her checks.

West Germany, according to High Commissioner McCloy, is enjoying its greatest boom in years. . . . The helms are on the most terrific spending spree since before the war and everyone is enjoying himself as much as the night they bombed Warsaw, Rotterdam and London. . . . The calendar would seem to indicate that it is the Christmas season, but no doubt many of them are celebrating the happy anniversary of the Battle of the Bulge and the Malmady Massacre just seven years ago.

J. Brooks Parker of Philadelphia left $25,000 in his will "for an appraisal of the influence FDR had on the nation." . . . It was his parting shot at that president. . . . FDR still has great influence on the American people because they had even greater influence on him. . . . Because of him the American people remember apples on trees instead of on street corners. . . . And as for the bequest of $25,000, Mr. Parker wouldn't have been

Jimmie Fiddler HOLLYWOOD

Hollywood, December 15. — The other day Director Curt Bernhardt captured considerable space in Hollywood newspapers by naming Filmyville's "Three most glamorous women." To no one's surprise, he cited Lana Turner, Rita Hayworth and Ava Gardner.

After all the years in which I've used the words "glamour" and "glamorous," that item impelled me to look them up in my two office dictionaries. I found that "glamour," according to Webster, is "any interest in, or association with, an object or person, through which the object or person appears deceptively magnified or glorified; a deceptive or enticing charm." The Winston dictionary puts it more briefly. It defines "glamour" as "deceptive charm or fascination." Okay, I'll accept those definitions, and, in accepting them, agree with Director Bernhardt that his trio probably fill the bill.

But I'm beginning to wonder if glamour has as much value as Hollywood likes to give it. Let's look at these three most glamorous ladies — and appraise their actual worth as screen stars by comparison with the worth of three other feminine stars who, I'm quite sure, would never be given "most glamorous" ratings. I refer to Bette Davis, Irene Dunne and Barbara Stanwyck.

There you have three stars who have been near the top of the Hollywood ladder for a combined total of approximately thirty years. I doubt that they've had, between them, a third as many fan magazine covers as any one of the three "glamour" girls can claim, but I'll wager that their pictures have paid a combined net profit large enough to make the earnings of all the pictures starring the Misses Turner, Gardner and Hayworth look like peanuts. They've done it, not by being glamorous, but by acting like the great actresses they are when on the screen, and acting like the genuinely intelligent, admirable human beings they are when they're off the screen.

There are times when I think that Hollywood could get along remarkably well without so much glamour.

able to leave it if FDR hadn't reopened Mr. Parker's bank.

Some editorialists continue hammering away at the idea that FDR played sucker for Stalin. They would have you believe Roosevelt was not aware of the peril that communism represents — and sold out to the Reds at Yalta.

They never mention that FDR warned the nation: "The Soviet Union, as everyone knows who has the courage to face facts, is a dictatorship as absolute as any dictatorship in the world."

FDR said that on Feb. 11th, 1940.

Senator Tobey has asked the Brooklyn Grand Jury to excuse him from testifying in the investigation of the mysterious death of Abe Reles. The gentleman from New Hampshire explained that he had "no facts or actual evidence to give" and that his remarks during the television hearings here last March were "based upon supposition." . . . However, the senator court records of very strange doct can find some documentation in the inks in the room of the dead man, and some very unusual messages that the deceased sent out any time the senator wants to look. . . . A free translation of what Senator Tobey has to say is this: "I admit I was talking through my hat last March, but in my television hammering it would have destroyed the effect of the act if I said so." . . . The senator's inability to produce a tremendous disappointment to the public — and a awful fiasco for the top billed act of 1951 television.

History is crowded with cruel ironies. General MacArthur was dismissed for raising his voice against the administration's mil-

Bob Considine, the columnist, couldn't have made the Runyon committee's Christmas happier. Excerpts from his syndicated salute follow: "Not much question about it. There's never been a charity fund in this country that has mushroomed as strenuously, or in better behalf, than the Runyon Cancer Fund. . . . The legacy that Runyon's friends left in his wake will, I suspect, outlive even the glamor of this man's short stories and his magnificent newspaper writing."

Indeed, out of his fund, built up from everything ranging from the pennies of the poorest to the grants and wills of the richest, may well come the answers that men have sought since the time of the Pharaohs — a cure for cancer. . . . The Runyon Fund is a great rarity among charities. Not a penny has ever been charged to the fund for administrative costs. . . . My head is humbly bared."

From the N. Y. Times: "Belated realization in Washington that Soviet propaganda has been so effective it could prove decisive in the global struggle is reported in a survey by the New York Times." Belated (as our files can show) is right.

The sun meets not the springing bud that stretches towards him, with half the certainty that God, the source of all good, communicates himself to the soul that longs to partake of him.—William Law.

George E. Sokolsky THESE DAYS

Among President Truman's plans that failed is the Nimitz commission, which was to have had supervision over the entire question of loyalty, or rather, disloyalty.

Because of Admiral Nimitz's deserved reputation, much confusion concerning this commission exists, the confusion generally being that the admiral's loyalty, or that of other members of the commission was brought into question. Actually, that was never so.

The issue at stake was the "conflict - of - interest" statutes as they applied to the members of the Nimitz commission. If they were only advisers to the president, this principle would not apply; if they were to be officers of the United States, it did apply. The president may appoint any advisers he desires, but such advisers have limited authority. The president may accept or reject their advice. However, what the president desired was that members of this commission should be officers of the United States and yet be exempt from the "conflict - of - interest" statutes. In a word, they should be given authority without responsibility.

In fact, if the Nimitz commission were given such an exemption by act of congress, the commission would have come into possession of authority which congress never intended it should have. The president really wanted one kind of legislation to accomplish altogether another kind of purpose. In this he was defeated.

The president of the United States has, in our history, appointed many commissions and groups, advisory to the president. This is a satisfactory procedure for getting the best citizens, efficient and capable men and women, to serve for specific purposes without requiring them to give up their own businesses or affairs. The Nimitz commission was the first instance of any president requesting legislation to exempt members of such commissions from "conflict - of - interest" statutes.

Sen. Pat McCarran wrote President Truman to explain the law: "The statutes which this bill would suspend have been a part of the criminal law for many years. Congress, in revising and codifying the criminal law, has had ample opportunity to delete these statutes from the law, but it has never done so. Members of the commission who appeared before the committee and the subcommittee acknowledged that these statutes constitute a question and desirable safeguard, and that there can be no question on that score. I have heard no one state that these statutes ought to be removed from the body of the law. Yet the effect of repeated legislative exemptions of persons from the operation of the law serves only as a piecemeal destruction of the statutes. Continued erosion of a worthwhile statute by successive exemptions does not of itself justify other and further exemptions. . . ."

Here is not a criticism of Admiral Nimitz but another conflict between the president and the congress over authority. More and more, it would appear that the president and his advisers favor the parliamentary form of government in vogue in Great Britain. Under that system, there is no written constitution and the will of parliament is paramount. The prime minister, actual head of the British government, is the leader of his party in the house of commons. He does not run for the position of prime minister; he runs as a member of the house of commons, the same as any other member.

Our form of government is very different. We have a written constitution with a vast body of decisions of the United States supreme court interpreting acts of congress, as to their suitability, by the yardstick of the constitution. Neither the congress nor the president is a free agent. Enormous limitations have been placed upon them by the constitution.

These limitations apparently Mr. Truman finds irksome. During his administration all sorts of devices have been used to evade constitutional limitations upon the executive. One of those devices placed an American army in a war in Korea without the consent of congress. That device called the Korean war a "police action," and gave the United Nations a control over American policy to which the congress never agreed. It was never asked.

Of course, if the people of the United States want a parliamentary government, or a Fascist government, or a Communist government, they can pass a constitutional amendment making the necessary changes. That was done with the income tax amendment (the 16th) which turned this country toward socialism. But if the people do not amend or abolish our written constitution, it is up to public officials to abide by it, as they were sworn to do.

Hollywood, Dec. 15.—Here's one picture that should be getting expert technical advice — from a three star general.

He is Lt. Gen. Robert Eichelberger, veteran of both world wars and commander of the eighth army in the Pacific during World War II. The general is in Hollywood to act as technical advisor on "Francis Goes to West Point."

When I saw him on the movie set, he seemed to be enjoying his duties and was full of admiration for the talented mule. "This is kind of a lark," he smiled, "But the Pentagon wanted to be sure the Point would be portrayed with dignity. So I was asked to come out here and act as technical advisor."

General Eichelberger is well qualified for the post, having been a commandant of West Point. He has been retired since 1947, although he has continued as advisor on affairs in the far east, where he served 15 years, or one-third of his army career. He now resides in Asheville, N. C.

Vittorio Gassman, who returned to his native Italy after a whirlwind visit to Shelly Winters, denied rumors of a romance, but indications are otherwise. When I visited Shelly on the set of "Untamed," what an apt title for a Winters episode, she was knitting. Not little things, mind you, but a man's sweater. Yes, it's for Vittorio.

Another straw in the wind, Shelly was ordering a set of Italian language records. End of scoop. Hold onto your ears, Nellie, the party's getting rough. If you listen closely in "Death of a Salesman," you'll hear Kevin McCarthy utter a "dammit." This is the first time the epithet has been heard on the screen since "Gone With the Wind."

The town is talking about McCarthy's performance in the film. Little is known about him. He played the role in London (Arthur Kennedy did it on Broadway.) He is a pal of Marlon Brando and Montgomery Clift, and like them, resisted Hollywood offers until he could write his own ticket. He convincingly plays an 18-year-old in "Salesman," but McCarthy is actually 37 and the father of three children.

Bob Hope is going to trim his television activities a bit. He had been on the Sunday night time for a cigarette sponsor, but the other comics rotating in the time spot with him didn't pan out. Hope was given the chance of alternating with a dramatic show, but turned it down. Now he's mulling other offers.

This week's thought-provoking letter comes from Mrs. Clarence D. Stephenson of Marion Center, Pa. She adds a note to the letter of a Carrolltown, Ga., reader who complained about drinking in films. Says Mrs. Stephenson:

"I wish to add that the omission of so much smoking, and cigarettes especially, by the supposed heroes and heroines in movies and on TV might be a good thing. The children of today are smoking by both men and women as a very commonplace thing."

Today one of the largest and most complete electric trains ever built in North Louisiana goes on display at 209 North Fourth street. Public Invited To See Electric Train

5 Engines On Tracks At Once; Open From 5-6 Today At 209 N. 4th St.

One of the most complete and unique electric trains ever displayed in Northeast Louisiana will be exhibited at 209 North Fourth street this afternoon from 3 until 6 p. m.

The tremendous electric train, comprised of five engines — including streamliners, diesels, steam locomotives and freights — is being displayed in order that children of the Twin Cities and others interested will have the opportunity to see the operation of the trains.

Owned by James A. Noe, the train required three months for its construction and is valued at several thousand dollars.

Built by M. C. Risley at the Firestone Home and Auto Supply store in West Monroe, the trains and all the electrical devices are controlled by five transformers.

For the benefit of school children, the train will be shown each week day Monday through Saturday from 10:30 a. m. until 12 p. m. and in the afternoon from 4:30 p. m. until 8 p. m. until the latter part of January.

It will be operated by Johnny Cunningham while on display.

Twenty-four by sixteen feet, the trains pass through tunnels, over bridges, mountains, farms, cities, oil fields ranches and etc.

In addition to the electric trains, miniature oil fields with pumping and flowing wells, airport beacons, automatic draw bridges, cattle loaders and radio towers operate as the engines pass over the tracks.

Farms with tractors, horses, cattle and miniature trees are also included in the setting, along with cities and towns with stores, a fire department, churches, homes, service stations and an airport.

An artificial lake with a miniature boat add to the magnificent display. Mountain ranges, trees and lawns add to the reality of the electric trains.

The train was completed several months ago and is being put on display for the public, the first time today.

FAMED ORATORIO WILL BE GIVEN

First Baptist Chancel
Choir Will Be Presented
Tonight

The Chancel Choir of the First Church of West Monroe will present Handel's "Immortal Messiah" Sunday night at 7:30. The Christmas portion of this beautiful oratorio will be sung by this choir under the conductorship of Edmond D. Keith, minister of music of the First Baptist, West Monroe, and accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Alma Woodham and Mrs. Ralph Fields at the piano.

Mrs. Eudell Rodriguez, soprano from the choir, will sing the soprano numbers of the oratorio and Mrs. Bobby Wilson, also from this choir, will sing the contralto solos. Mr. Eugene Smith, choir director of Immanuel Baptist Church, Monroe, will sing the tenor arias and Mr. Phil Hisey, choir director of the First Presbyterian Church, Ruston, and soloist in the Louisiana Tech Concert Association's presentation of the Messiah, will sing the bass solos. The following will sing in the chorus:

Claude Alexander, Clyde Autrey, Mrs. Cline Averett, Cline Averett, Patsy Averett, Freda Bannister, Evelyn Bledsoe, Melvin A. Bradley, Mrs. Melvin A. Bradley, Doris Brown, Mrs. Nolan Bryant, Marianne Buice, Janet Cash, Gary Coaker, Dale Cobb, Keith Cobb, Mrs. P. A. Colvin, Mrs. Maurice Fleming, Calvert C. Frantom, Virginia Gandy, Mrs. R. L. Gibson, Mary Hammons, Vance Harrelson, Mrs. W. H. Hilborne, Dorothy Holt, James Holzelaw, Sue Hunt, Edmond D. Keith, Mrs. Edmond D. Keith, Mrs. Carrie Kirkland, Mrs. Marguerite Lewis, John P. Lewis, Mrs. John P. Lewis, Carolyn McCary, R. P. McKay, Cecil Moore, Mrs. Cecil Moore, Donny Murphy, Ralph Murphy, David Naff, Mrs. James Nelson, Mrs. Jonnie Parker, O. Earl Pettit, Frances Pollard, Kity Sue Pollard, Mrs. Jaroy Weir, J. Omer Weir, Mrs. J. Omer Weir, Mrs. Carl White, and Bonnie York.

The Bible lends itself to music as naturally as breathing. Through the pages of the Old Testament the Messianic prophecies develop like the music of a mighty oratorio, from the Aria of the Lord delivered to Satan in the Garden of Eden, the marvelous word - pictures of Calvary in the Psalms, on through the mighty choruses of Isaiah and the redemptive solo of Zephaniah to the solemn promise of Malachi which sounded like a shout of trumpets before the silence fell: "Behold! The Lord who ye seek shall suddenly come to his temple!"

And so the stage is set, the fullness of time is come, and the next music we hear is that of an angel choir singing of the birth of Jesus. His birth, His ministry, His death, His resurrection all go to make redemption's sweet story that never grows old. Then once again we are carried into the realm of prophecy where through the eyes of the spirit we are permitted to look into the ages to come, where Christ is crowned "Lord God Omnipotent, and He shall reign forever and ever."

Reds Malted By French In East

Hanoi, Indo-China, Dec. 15. — (AP) — The French High Command estimated tonight their forces had inflicted 7,000 casualties upon the Communist-led Vietminh troops in halting offensives west and east of Hanoi.

Army headquarters said the Vietminh lost 2,500 killed and a similar number wounded in attempts during the past week to cross the Black river 40 miles southwest of Hanoi, and push eastward.

It added the French had killed an estimated 1,000 Vietminh and wounded a similar number in repulsing a series of attacks along the vital Red river Delta.

The command said attacks upon French positions in the delta area were aimed at forcing the French to draw troops from the west along the Black River. The French declared, however, that all Vietminh assaults in the delta were repulsed by using local reserves.

Canadian Army Casualty List Reports 1 Killed

LONG MEMORY

Warwick, R. I. — (AP) — The long arm of the law happened to be exactly as long as police Captain Sam Henderson's memory.

When he read that a man had been charged in nearby Providence with driving off with two tons of the city's coal, Henderson's memory guided his hand to a dusty warrant which had laid in his desk for 10 years.

FOUR LA. NEEDS NAMED BY BOGGS

Denham Springs, La., Dec. 15. — (Special) — Rep. Hale Boggs, candidate for governor, told a crowd here today that four basic things are needed in Louisiana. These, he said, are the principal points in his "Louisiana first" program. He listed them as follows:

"1. Honest, efficient and active administration of the state government, which will restore faith and confidence of the people.

"2. A 'housecleaning' job, that includes extension of voting machines to insure honest elections, constitutional civil service, cutting deadheads off the payroll, ending the deducts system, improvement of conditions at state mental institutions and at Angola. It includes the elimination of waste, duplication and inefficiency.

"3. Development of state and its people. Improvement of the public school system. A program of public works that includes highways, building bridges, providing necessary drainage, flood control and reclamation of millions of acres of valuable lands. General industrialization of the state.

"4. Get our people to work together and pull together to meet the challenges and opportunities that are knocking on our door."

Boggs spoke here today with members of his ticket in one of six campaign rallies during the day in the sixth congressional district.

"No governor can do things without help of the people," Boggs told the crowd here. "His hands are tied, no matter how beneficent his program."

The gubernatorial candidate said that he wants to merit the respect of the people. He pointed out "that by working together, we can do the things that need doing in Louisiana."

"If you people get a governor who will work with you," Boggs continued, "who believes in the state and will do a job, then you will have an era of prosperity, progress and growth that will exceed anything in our past history."

At another point in his talk, Boggs told the crowd that another great need in Louisiana that will help restore the people's faith and confidence in its state government, is "political independence" in the state legislature. He told his listeners that he favors "an independent legislature and an end to rubber stamp legislating under the snap of a dictatorial whip - master."

In pledging efficient and businesslike administration of state affairs, Boggs stated he will "end the waste, the special privilege, the inefficiencies, the deducts and the deadheads that prevail today."

The gubernatorial candidate urged voters "not to divide your strength or scatter your vote." He told the crowd here that "Hale Boggs is the leading anti-Earl Long candidate" in this race. The election of Hale Boggs and the Boggs ticket is your best assurance of stable and businesslike administration of your state government—a government dedicated to serving human needs as well as the achievement of a constructive program for all of our people and our children."

Speaking here with Boggs were Chester Coco, candidate for attorney general, Mrs. Ellen Moore, candidate for register of state land office and Rep. Jimmy Morrison of the sixth district.

The two other members of the Boggs ticket, C. E. (Cap) Barham, candidate for lieutenant governor, and Douglas Fowler, candidate for state auditor, together with United States Senator Russell Long, were speaking at a series of Boggs campaign rallies in central Louisiana today.

The campaigners headed by Gubernatorial Candidate Hale Boggs are scheduled to continue their tour of south Louisiana Sunday with eight campaign rallies as follows: Gold Place, 10 a. m., Galvez, 11 a. m., Dutchtown, 1 p. m., Gonzales, 2:30 p. m., Laplace, 4 p. m., St. Rose, 5 p. m., Destrehan, 6 p. m., and Luling 7:30 p. m.

The second group of Boggs campaigners headed by Sen. Russell Long have seven rallies scheduled Sunday for central Louisiana as follows: Fifth Ward (Avoyelles parish), 11 a. m., Effie, 1 p. m., Hesser, 2 p. m., Evergreen, 3 p. m., Dupont, 4 p. m., Hamburg, 5 p. m., and Bordelonville, 6 p. m.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

Today, Little Theatre's October, comedy production of "Abie's Irish Rose" hits the boards again to entertain the veterans of Veterans' Hospital, Alexandria. This 51-52 season opener, timeless in its story and comedy, proved to be one of the most popular plays ever to be presented in the Twin Cities. Three years the veterans loved "Dear Ruth," the next season they applauded the G. I. love story and comedy of "John Loves Mary" and last year gales of laughter echoed through the auditorium as they enjoyed "The Hasty Heart" and "Lachie's secret of the hills. How about an orchard or two for the cast of "Abie's Irish Rose," who got together again to keep up the tradition of laughter for these boys at their annual Christmas party.

Most honorable mention to the multitude of anonymous citizens who furnished gifts, cakes, cookies, and candy as well as pecans to make Monroe Day, this year bliger, better and more enjoyable in every way. That's the real spirit of Christmas to bring gladness to the hearts of others.

DANDOM NOTES . . . While "Abie's Irish Rose" comes to life again to entertain the much praised second production of the season "All My Sons" passed into theatre history with a delightful cast and crew party in the home of Carl and Betty Slater in their lovely home on Bayou Desiard. The Jaycees were on the air that night soliciting for their Christmas gift to the children at Baptist Orphanage, John Savage (Jaycee) who will be appearing in "Abie's Irish Rose" down in Alexandria, today, congratulated the group on eight nights of good theatre and then called on them for a contribution to the Jaycees' worthy cause. Before John could get his dedication of "There's No Business Like Show Business" on the disc, someone's hat had made the round and there were $15.00 waiting for him to come and pick up when he went off the air. . . . The Jaycees' plan to give each child $5.00 to spend on Christmas gifts and the members of the organization will bring them to town to do their shopping. Their goal for the 166 children was $900. They will do this on Monday, so it is still not too late to check up and see if they have reached the goal. . . . The News-Star—World carrier boys will be Christmas partying in the Fireside room of the Renaissance on Wednesday evening. They have drawn names and will give each other toys which will be turned over to the Good Fellows at the conclusion of the evening's entertainment. How's that for being young citizens? . . . Director Fontellieu tells me that he will announce the plans for try-outs for "The Play's the Thing," scheduled for immediately after New Years, before he leaves for New Orleans to spend the holidays with his parents. . . . So with that I will make a hasty exit and go a Santa Clausing some myself.

Kennon's Ticket To Open Tour In Northeast La.

Judge Robert F. Kennon, the man who says he's gonna be Louisiana's next governor, invades the Twin Cities Wednesday, accompanied by his entire ticket, and will continue a speaking tour south of here during the latter part of the week.

The Minden Judge will speak in West Monroe at 11 a.m. Wednesday in front of Jack Russell's bus station and taxi stand, according to Lorenzo Smith, manager of Kennon's campaign in Ouachita parish.

A coffee hour will be held at the Frances Hotel Wednesday night at 7:30 p. m. when Kennon and his wife will be on hand to greet all visitors, and make personal contact with many of his supporters expected to attend Smith said.

His speeches here are expected to cover some portions of his 13-point platform which he has already carried to a large portion of the state.

Other members of his ticket expected to speak here are: Elmer D. Connor, candidate for lieutenant governor; Fred S. LeBlanc, attorney general and Allison R. Kolb, candidate for state auditor. Smith said State Campaign Manager Edwin F. Hunter and other Kennon supporters, were also expected to accompany the ticket.

Hunter is a state representative from Caddo parish.

Kennon's platform sets forth the following programs and policies he expects to be carried out in the event he is elected governor in the January 15 primary:

A "real" civil service system, protected by constitutional amendment.

Non-political administration of the highway commission and better roads at lower cost.

Voting machines available for "every voting precinct in the state."

Full $50 pension and a continued welfare program.

Fair taxation policy — encourage new industry.

Constitutional guarantee for local government in every community.

Remove mental hospitals, penal institutions and welfare agencies from partisan politics.

Encouragement to Louisiana's native industries.

Improved public health.

Stop political waste by removing the governor's excessive and over-trousers by their waists.

Glyn Dearman as Tiny Tim in United Artists' new release of Charles Dickens' immortal classic—"A Christmas Carol." This same youngster touches off a spark in the frigid heart of old Scrooge, the miser, excellently portrayed by Alastair Sim. This film will be shown at the Tem Wednesday thru Thursday.

SOUTHEASTERN LOOP HAS NO DE-EMPHASIS

NO DE - EMPHASIS FOR S. E. C. HEADS IN FINAL SESSION

Make No Changes In Old Football Rulings At Meeting

By Sterling Slapay
New Orleans, Dec. 15.—The Southeastern conference today de-emphasized football de-emphasis. During the final session of the S. E. C.'s annual meeting, vote casting college presidents, taking guidance from head coaches and athletic directors, changed their minds and ruled that freshmen can remain on varsities until Sept. 1, 1953.

The ruling is a complete reversal of action taken 18 hours previously. During Friday's session, freshmen were ruled out of varsities effective on Sept. 1, 1952.

The final chance for the S. E. C. to modify its pro - bowl stand and align itself with other conferences and groups opposed to post season games, passed this morning.

No change was made and none was anticipated. The S. E. C. is still a bowl league and apparently its 12 members will accept any invitation to any bowl anywhere, just as long as that bowl holds approval of the national collegiate athletic association.

The conference executive committee was ordered to study athletic scholarships during the next year and to prepare recommendations about the various kinds of scholarships.

During the Friday session C. M. Sarratt, vice chancellor of Vanderbilt University, offered two proposals which would take six teams out of bowls entirely. Sarratt's proposals had no chance of passage whatsoever. His first proposal failed to gain a second motion.

Only in minor matters did the S. E. C. go into de-emphasis during the two-day meeting. And then the S. E. C. didn't go very far.

Possibly the most de-emphasis came when presidents reduced spring training from six weeks to 20 working sessions. Another move, which has members so confused several say they aren't sure just what is meant, is a limitation of 30 football scholarships permissible annually.

The limit was voted Friday. Immediately a four - man committee was appointed to interpret just what the presidents had voted on. Bobby Dodd of Georgia Tech, told presidents the rule means a coach can certify only 30 scholarships annually for varsity competition. He can award additional scholarships however. Others in that class are declared ineligible for competition until the following Sept. 1. During the season a man can not win promotion from "B" squads to service in actual games.

A general idea among conference officials was that the rule would have to be changed drastically or dropped completely. However, no such action came this morning.

In other moves the 140 - scholarship ceiling per school for all sports was left on the books. Generally, N. C. A. A.'s television rules hold good in the S. E. C. Free substitution and the two - platoon system failed to win censure.

A resolution, to the N. C. A. A. football rules committee asking that they be changed, did not pass.

S. E. C. teams again can play 11 games in the fall if they choose, since a move to hold them to 10 failed to pass.

Basketball was de - emphasized more than football. The annual basketball tournament held in Louisville, Ky., was abolished after the Feb. 23 - March 1, 1952 meet.

Several officials however, say they expect the S. E. C. to reinstate the tournament within a year by changing their minds and votes just as they did today on freshmen eligibility.

The freshmen vote passed, it was understood, by seven votes favoring freshmen on varsities for the year Sept. 1, 1952, to Sept. 1, 1953, and five opposing.

Dr. Blake R. Van Leer of Georgia Tech, said he cast one of the opposing votes. An unusually good source said the other four opposition votes were cast by Tulane, Vanderbilt, Alabama and Florida.

The vote against freshmen participation on varsities yesterday was decisive. Before the re-consideration session an argument began between delegates on just who had voted for and who voted against the freshmen rule previously.

The conference voted to begin basketball practice on Oct. 15 annually. Like the September date for football, the basketball beginning practice date is compulsory and no team is allowed to begin earlier.

Three More All-Stars Added To Hula Roster

Los Angeles, Dec. 15.—Three more football stars — Bill McColl, Stanford's all - America end; tackle Don Coleman of Michigan State, and Chuck Ulrich, Illinois tackle—were added today to the college all - stars who will play in the Hawaiian Hula Bowl games next month.

Director Paul Stupin said all had accepted invitations to play in the two games billed for Honolulu Jan. 6 and 13 against Hawaii's all-stars.

World's Champion Girls Basketball Team To Have Performance In Monroe

Takes On Nichols Motor Company January 3

Olson's All American Red Heads, world's champion girls basketball club, will make an appearance here on January 3 against Nichols Motor Company, the Valley League Champions, in the Ouachita Parish High School gymnasium.

The Red Heads, mixing humor with their skill, travel the country giving exhibitions against men's teams and play with only five players as do the men's teams.

The Red Heads are the originators of such hilarious on-the-court stunts as "Piggy Back", "Under Legs Dribble", "Congo Line", and "Finger Ball Spinning", with these names giving an apt description of their style of play, but last year they won 123 games out of 183 played.

Featured as the Red Head's stellar attraction is Red Mason, "Miss Basketball" of Arkansas. Standing five-foot-eight inches tall Miss Mason is called the "Red Skelton" of the courts and is now playing her fourth season with the Red Heads.

Miss Mason is one of the most outstanding basketball players in the country and was at one time mentioned in "Believe It Or Not" as throwing basketball goals with her feet.

Also on the Red Heads ball club are Johnnie Farley, Bonnie Gilliland, Mable Matlock, Betty Bradshaw, Ginny Morris, and Ruth Harms.

Miss Farley is described as being the prettiest girl in basketball besides being the greatest all-around player Arkansas has ever produced — according to advance notices.

CARSWELL BEATS JACKSON, 32 TO 7

Carswell Gridsters Beat Jackson In Service Bowl

Columbia, S. C., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Jackrabbit - fast Loyd Lowe, 150-pound former North Texas State back, was the offensive star of a powerful backfield combination today as Carswell, Tex., Air Force Base thumped Fort Jackson, S. C., 32-7 in the Service Bowl here.

Lowe scored Carswell's first touchdown on a first period screen pass from Quarterback Vernon Glass good for 18 yards. He took off on a 50-yard broken field run for another in the last quarter. Lowe carried 15 times for 179 yards.

Both teams took perfect 10-0-0 records into the bowl game in the University of South Carolina stadium. It was sponsored by the Columbia Optimist Club, which billed it as deciding the mythical National Service championship.

Glass, who formerly played for Rice, connected on two first quarter touchdowns. The other went to End Bob Fletcher, formerly of Ole Miss, in the end zone from five yards out. Jackson never threatened to overcome this early lead.

The beefy Carswell defensive line held solidly in the middle all afternoon. Most of Jackson's 123 yards rushing came on plays around end.

James Jeffrey, Baylor veteran, and Dub Graves, who played for Tulsa, scored Carswell's other touchdowns.

Jackson got its lone score in the third quarter. Red Jenkins, former Mississippi back, slipped around left end from the five to cap a 77-yard drive.

Carswell's lineup drew heavily from Southwestern conference schools. The Southeastern conference was well represented on the Jackson side.

A crowd of about 18,000 turned out in cold, windy weather.

Kilgore Gridsters Hit Northeastern

Tyler, Tex., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Kilgore Junior College's Rangers unleashed a punishing ground game today to sweep past Northeastern (Okla.) A. and M., 27-14, in the fifth annual Texas Rose Bowl game.

Only 2,000 chilled fans braved the 32-degree weather to see the game.

Seven fine running backs had a share in the Kilgore victory. The greatest of them all was Ralph Reynolds, 160 - pound seatback. Reynolds scored two touchdowns and made 188 yards in 16 carries, for an 11.7 average.

Boyd Ray Collins also had a big part in the triumph. He scored the other two Ranger touchdowns.

Don Gregory kicked three out of four conversion attempts. Although outclassed, the Golden Norsemen showed plenty of defensive fight inside their 20. Time and again they stopped Kilgore drives short of the goal line during the first half.

Northeastern could not use its favorite aerial game to an advantage because the severe cold kept receivers from holding onto passes. They first scored after turning to a ground game in the fourth quarter.

Musial, Rizzuto Given Sportsmanship Awards

New York, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals, and Phil Rizzuto of the New York Yankees, won the Jack Singer awards for sportsmanship today. Each received a trophy and a $1,000 war bond.

The awards are made annually to the player voted as having shown the best sportsmanship during the preceding major league season. The award honors the memory of the late Jack Singer, I. N. S. sports writer and war correspondent killed during World War II.

Bolton High School, of Alexandria, La., beat out seven other teams here yesterday to capture the second annual Neville High School Invitational Basketball tournament.

The Bears took the final game with an easy 59 to 23 win over the Ruston Bearcats to win the first place championship award. An award also went to Ruston for second place honors.

Bolton entered the semi-finals with a 58 to 25 win over LaSalle High School, of Olla, La., and Ruston entered the finals by beating the host team 42 to 29.

In the preliminary rounds Bolton, the high scoring team all the

Calhoun, Start Split Cage Meet

Farmerville, Dec. 15.—(Special) —The Calhoun High School boys' basketball team and the Start High School girls' basketball team won the Farmerville High School Invitational Tournament championship here tonight.

The boys' championship game was by far the outstanding game of the tournament as Calhoun barely nosed by Bernice, 45 to 44. In the final five seconds of the championship game with the score 45 to 44, a Bernice player missed a free throw for the tying shot of the game.

The Start girls won their final game with a 35 to 23 win over Downsville High School's girls.

Trophies were awarded for the first and second place entries in the tournament in both the boys' and girls' competition. Besides the trophies the Farmerville Lions Club donated a sportsmanlike award to the most sportsmanlike boy and girl in the tournament.

Walter Bennett, of Ouachita Parish High School, was awarded the boy's award and Miss Taylor, of Downsville, took the girls'.

Ouachita Parish High School lost out in the semi-finals to Calhoun, 46 to 37, and the Summerfield boys were edged out by Bernice 42 to 40, in the boys game.

Start's girls moved into the finals by defeating Bonita, 23 to 15, and Calhoun by defeating Downsville, 38 to 24.

Clemson College Officials Say They 'Got A Raw Deal' From Southern Loop

Clemson, Maryland Placed On One Year's Probation

Richmond, Va., Dec. 15.—Clemson College officials said today the school "got a raw deal" and that the Southern Conference was "unfriendly" in punishing it for accepting a football bowl invitation without permission.

The conference last night placed Clemson and the University of Maryland on probation for one year, beginning January 1, and slapped a virtual schedule boycott against them in football.

Denied permission to play, Maryland and Clemson indicated they would keep their New Year's Day bowl engagements. Maryland plays Tennessee in the Sugar Bowl. Clemson faces Miami of Florida in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla.

"The punitive action was not just and fair," said Dr. Robert Franklin Poole, Clemson president. "The conference was unfriendly."

Asked if he would do the same thing over again, Dr. Poole merely replied:

"Would you blame me? I'm not sorry. . . ."

Only football was affected by the schedule boycott. Under the action, Maryland and Clemson can play only league football games required by state law and each other.

Dr. Lee W. Milford, faculty chairman of athletics at Clemson, said, "We were penalized for being honest. We got a raw deal."

board of trustees. "Then I may have a statement," he said. "I can't say right now. . . ."

While the conference turned down Clemson's request to meet Miami in the Gator Bowl, it made it possible today for the Tigers' Captain Bob Patton to compete in the game.

Patton, a tackle from Gray Court, S. C., completed his eligibility after returning from the armed forces immediately before Clemson's final 1951 game with Auburn. But the conference changed its rule applying to returning servicemen, effective immediately. Thus, Patton will be eligible.

The conference also abolished its rule that any member participating in a post-season football game must pay five per cent of its gross receipts into the loop treasury. By this action, neither Maryland nor Clemson will have to pay the assessment.

A regulation was passed under which each member will furnish to the conference commissioner, Wallace Wade, an itemized statement on all aid received from any source by each of its athletes.

Aid to an athlete by way of scholarship award, grant-in-aid or in any form other than employment is limited to actual institutional expenses. A cash allowance not exceeding $15 monthly may be paid for laundry and dry cleaning by institutions where these items are not included in college fees.

'NO STATEMENT' ON KENTUCKY FIX

Investigation Of Basketball Scandal Goes On

Lexington, Ky., Dec. 15. —A lengthy conference developed today in the basketball fix investigation centered around the University of Kentucky but there was no indication of the progress of the inquiry.

At least one more conference was planned.

Dr. H. L. Donovan, university president, said "no further statement should be made to the press until we have completed our review of this case."

Dr. Donovan was in a lengthy huddle today with Vincent A. O'Connor, assistant district attorney from New York, and Guy Huguette of Lexington, chairman of the university trustees.

O'Connor said previously "other" Kentucky players made "corrupt monies in deals with fixers from New York state." He said he was hopeful the players involved "will come over to the side of law and order." He did not mention names, games or dates.

O'Connor indicated he has the evidence against New York fixers but needs the Kentucky players as proof that a bribe was paid. He said the players will not be prosecuted.

Counsel for the players had declined to permit questioning of their clients except in their presence.

This resistance has moved the inquiry in Kentucky into its third day.

O'Connor came to Lexington Thursday, apparently armed with information that indicated an unspecified number of players were involved in deals with gamblers to control the point spread in games. Three former Kentucky players have admitted to accepting money to control the difference in scores in the Kentucky - Loyola game in the National Invitation Tournament in 1949. They are Alex Groza, Ralph Beard and Dale Barnstable.

Developments into the latest inquiry have indicated any such uncovered deals were arranged outside New York — possibly in Kentucky or some other state that has no law covering bribery of athletes.

CLASS B TITLE WON BY BEARS

Delhi Takes Class B Championship Final, 26-6

Delhi, Dec. 14. —(Special) — Coach Raymond Richard's Delhi High School Bears, bucking an icy wind and a muddy field, plowed over the goal line Friday night for four touchdowns and two extra points to take the Class B State High School Championship with a 26 to 6 win over Donaldsonville High School.

Norman Derouen, Charles Wylie, Bobby Hartley and Andrews were the game's outstanding players, doing most of the running and passing for the Bears.

For Donaldsonville, Sotile, Esquivel, and Theo Martinez played outstanding ball, with Marcello setting up the only Tiger touchdown by blocking a kick.

Delhi got an early lead in the game, scoring two touchdowns in the first quarter to go 13 points ahead of the Donaldsonville Tigers. Early in the first quarter Donaldsonville was unable to gain and punted to their own 42 yard line, where Norman Derouen picked up the ball and galloped to the Tiger 14.

Charles Wylie took the ball over on two running plays for the first Bear touchdown and Andrews passed to Derouen for the extra point.

A few moments later another Donaldsonville drive bogged down and they punted to their own 32-yard-line. Derouen, Patterson, and Wylie alternated on running plays to take the ball to the Tiger 20, where Andrews went over on a quarterback sneak. Wylie run for the extra was stopped. Donaldsonville made the next touchdown after taking over on their own 45 yard line. A pass from Bernard to Sotile was good for 33 yards and Esquivel covered 13 yards on a running play before they were stopped on downs.

The Bears took over but Andrews punt from the end-zone was blocked by Marcello and Martinez recovered for a touchdown. Roberts run for the extra point was short.

The Bears captured their third score without losing possession of the ball after the Tiger kick - off. Derouen made a 20 yard return and then Wylie cut loose for 47 yards to the Donaldsonville 13. On the next play a pass from Andrews to Bobby Hartley was good for the score. Andrews passed to Wylie for the extra point.

The last Bear touchdown was made on a 67 yard march in the final period. Derouen and Wylie alternated on running plays to the Tiger 20, where Andrews made a repeat performance to Hartley for the score. The kick was no good. The Bears completed five first downs compared to two for the Tigers, and gained 214 yards on the ground compared to 30 for Donaldsonville.

Score by quarters:
Donaldsonville 0 0 6 0—6
Delhi 13 0 7 6—26

Hayamaka To Wrestle Jack Curtis In Championship Bout At Kallio's

Curtis Takes On "Red" Lyons In Semi-Final

The battle of the century winds up the wrestling at Gus Kallio's Arena for 1951 Tuesday night as Jack Curtis tangles with Light Heavyweight Champion Sugi Hayamaka in a championship bout.

Since Hayamaka first appeared here a month ago—barely a week after he won the championship from Henry Harrell, in Jackson, Miss.—the fans have been clamoring for a bout between two of the most outstanding wrestlers who have appeared on this circuit.

Hayamaka stipulated last week that he would not wrestle Curtis unless the former champion put up a $400 guarantee for a crack at the title. Curtis was unwilling to put up more than $150, but Gus Kallio placed the remaining sum up himself.

Kallio's $250 appears to have turned out to be a good investment as the purchasing of ring side seats for the bout is already under way.

The two mighty matmen—Curtis and Hayamaka—are perhaps the most skilled wrestlers who have ever appeared on this circuit. Curtis, a former champion himself, is an old hand at the wrestling game and has both skill and strength to throw at his opponents.

He is the best liked of the matmen who have appeared in Monroe as he fights strongly but cleanly all the time. Skill and strength alone have won at least 90 per cent of his bouts for him and he will be a hard man for the little Japanese champion to whip.

Hayamaka, on the other hand, has plenty of ring experience himself and, coupled with his skill at judo and wrestling holds, will be no pushover even for such a mighty man as Curtis.

Hayamaka has appeared here three times against some of the toughest opponents in the ring on this circuit and has never lost a match. "Red" Lyons, another former judo expert, and "Mighty" Scott, a gigantic Scotman compared to Hayamaka, fell by the wayside before the fury of the little man's hand chops and the skill of his Japanese sleep hold in previous bouts here.

Hayamaka also is not one to resort to nefarious stunts to down his opponents as his skill is sufficient to make up for any dirty tricks on the part of his opponents. Curtis, when in a tight, sometimes resorts to his fists if his opponents get too dirty but the Japanese slices with the side of his hand in perfectly legal licks.

Nothing of the nature of dirty tricks is expected in this bout of champions and will probably turn out to be the cleanest and most evenly matched battle that has ever taken place at Kallio's arena.

In the semi-finals event George Curtis, Jack's brother, takes on "Red" Lyons in a bout that will be almost as evenly matched as that of his brother.

Lyons, who first made his appearance here two weeks ago, is an old hand at wrestling and sometimes resorts to unfair methods to win his bout, but he can give most of the younger wrestlers a hard time without the tricks.

George Curtis, however, is not so much of a youngster anymore and knows the way around a ring pretty well himself. He is a skilled matman who doesn't have to use his fists much to put his opponents away.

The championship bout, which will be the main event, will have a 90-minute time limit with two falls to win, while the semi-final match will go one hour with two falls to win.

Ahead By Length And A Half In Season's First Start

Miami, Fla., Dec. 15. —Hot Penny, a fleet three-year old son of Curious Coin - Smoky Gal, dominated all the running in the Latin American Handicap before 9,538 at Tropical Park today.

Making his first start of the winter, the mid-western sprinter completely smothered eight rivals with his speed as he crossed the wire a length and a half in front. He paid 28.20, $10.90 and $5.60.

Play Toy, from J. L. McKnight's stable, was the runnerup. Dubious was third. Sedgewick, the favorite finished sixth.

Hot Penny, owned by Mrs. Daisy Sukundo of Detroit, Mich., was ridden by the nation's leading jockey, Charley Burr, who increased his 1951 win total to 296, including eight at the current meeting here.

The sophomore covered the six furlongs in 1.11 on a track that was "deadened" slightly by a heavy rain before the first race.

Robert Wilkinson's Fleet Factor won the featured $5,000 Gulf Coast Purse at the Fair Grounds track beating Ralph Lowe's Regal by one-half length.

Fleet Factor sped the mile and one-sixteenth in 1:47 and paid $29.60 and $8.20. Regal paid $6.20 to place. There was no show betting.

The Brown Hotel Stable's The Gink was third, ahead of Sam Wilson's Bugledrums, a 3-5 favorite in the five-horse race.

The 7,900 fans bet a total of 328,139.

Charging to the front in the stretch, Palestinian, the favorite, won the $25,000 added Golden Gate Handicap at Golden Gate Fields.

He paid $4.90, $3.50 and $2.70. Simonsen returned $4.80 and $3.20. Moonrush paid $2.80.

A crowd of 17,152 turned out for the final day of racing. The fans bet $206,708 on the feature race.

Palestinian's victory earned $15,250.

Davis Cuppers Tangle With Aussies Next

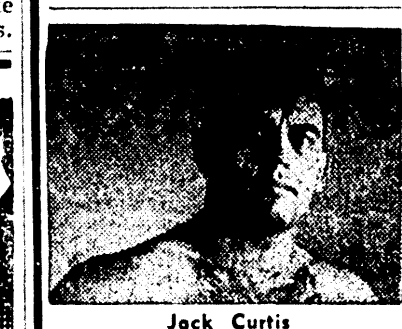

Melbourne, Australia, Dec. 15. —The stage was set today for the Davis cup challenge round but no one seemed to know who would play the starring roles for the United States against Australia's star tennis players.

U. S. Captain Frank Shields, who learned next to nothing from his team's easy 5-0 sweep over Sweden in the inter-zone final concluded today, named the expected four who will carry the U. S. colors. Immediately after the final match against Sweden, Shields said the team would be made up of Ted Schroeder, Tony Trabert, Dick Savitt and Vic Seixas.

But — he did not say who would play singles, and who doubles, and he made it clear he would not reveal his plans until the eve of the challenge round, to be played at Sydney Dec. 26 - 18.

form just before the deadline," he told newsmen. "You can save your breath by not asking me about the team before the deadline."

He did say, however, that he was not happy about Trabert's form today as the young Cincinnati star defeated Lennart Bergelin, 6-1 10-8, 6-4. Trabert's showing may have been affected by the fact that Bergelin, his country's finest player, for the first time in the three-day series showed flashes of the tennis form he is capable of.

During one stretch in the second set he broke Trabert's service three straight times with really magnificent tennis.

Shields also made one other observation which may be regarded as a hint of who'll make up the U. S. hand against Australia's pair of Aces, Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor. Mervyn Rose and Ian Ayre also were named to the Aussie team, but Sedgman and McGregor almost certainly will do all of the playing.

"It takes Davis cup play to give you that eased look Schroeder has out there," Shields said after watching the La Crescenta, Calif., veteran whip Sven Davidsson, 6-2, 6-2, 6-1.

Schroeder certainly did look good against Davidsson, blasting over his own big serve and breaking the Swede's service seven of the last eight times he served. Ted was helped, however by Davidsson's ragged play as the Swede committed a record total of 15 double faults.

POLIO SURGERY NOW ADVANCES

Dr. Irwin, Of Warm Springs, Tells How Treatment Shows Progress

Lessons learned in rehabilitating hands disabled in World War II have greatly stimulated hand surgery techniques in dealing with malfunction caused by polio. It was disclosed today by Dr. C. E. Irwin, medical director of the Georgia Warm Springs Foundation.

Writing in the December issue of the National Foundation News, published by the March of Dimes Organization, Dr. Irwin states: "The principles applicable to most forms of traumatic hand surgery are equally suitable for the hand disabled by poliomyelitis. These individuals require the very best of physical therapy during the convalent stage of the disease. "Every effort should be made to restore muscle function to its highest level. The degree to which this can be obtained is limited to the extent of destruction of representative nerve cells in the central nervous system which control the various muscles of the hand."

Two different types of muscles, Dr. Irwin says, take part in various motions of the fingers: The long, or extrinsic muscles, which originate in the arm and forearm and insert into the fingers to aid in flexing and extending the digits; and the short, or intrinsic muscles, originating in the hand and which insert into the fingers and the long tendons. These latter muscles, Dr. Irwin says, are, almost without exception, paralyzed to a varying degree when the hand is disabled by polio.

"The long, or extrinsic musculature of the wrist or fingers can often be transferred to a position to restore function of the short, or intrinsic musculature," Dr. Irwin reveals. "The careful execution of well planned operative procedures can often transform a disabled hand into one of almost normal appearance and one capable of a surprising amount of dexterity." Through successful muscle transfers, he notes, "patients may again use a typewriter, play the piano, fasten a button and do many other dexterous functions which otherwise would be impossible."

According to Dr. Irwin, the highest level of function which surgery can restore to the disabled hand depends on several factors: The severity of the paralysis left in the aftermath of the disease, the quality of physical therapy administered; the proper evaluation of the patient's problem by the surgeon, plus the skill with which the subsequent operative procedures are executed, and the degree of patient cooperation in carrying out the important postoperative care.

Dear Sir:

What are the issues of the present gubernatorial election?

During the past week the average citizen has received many reasons to gaze skeptically on the nine candidates who are asking for election to the post of governor of Louisiana.

The highways, which we know to be in a deplorable condition, are a vocal point for much oration. In Monroe last week Lt. Gov. William Dodd stated that if elected to the post he would see that Highway 80 was made a four lane highway from the Mississippi river to the Texas line. This is a promise, which if executed, would be a major contribution to the state since the bare fact remains that the money is available for the project if it hasn't all gone out the window by some unknown method.

Louisiana roads are in a disgusting condition. Why so? Have we not paid the highest taxes in the nation during the past four years and have we not also been promised good roads and received only patches here and there only to make matters worse.

The time has come for the people of Louisiana to wake up and say to the spoils politician, "We are tired of graft, corruption and crudeness in the state government, and from here on in we will not be dictated to by a political machine or large monopolies."

If Louisiana is to hold her head high among the other states of the Union and not have the rest of the nation laughing at her politics the step must come now or never. Let's elect a man, who is one of us, a legislator, humanitarian, executor, businessman, and above all a man with integrity and character. Bill Dodd in my estimation is the man who meets the requirements and one who we the average citizen would be proud to call our governor.

JONESVILLE TO BE LIGHTED

Jonesville, Dec. 15.—(Special)—Plans for a Christmas lighting contest in Jonesville were made this week under the sponsorship of the Jonesville Garden Club. The contest will be divided into two sections—business houses and residences. Only one prize will be given in the business division, but residences will compete for first, second and third prizes. The town council has voted to give $50 for the prizes, which probably will be shrubs and other plants to improve the general appearance of the town.

Rodney Hobbs Post And Auxiliary Will Take Gifts To Hospitalized Vets

The Christmas party sponsored by the Rodney J. Hobbs Post and Auxiliary, Veterans of Foreign Wars at the V. F. W. Club room Thursday night was the biggest and best ever given by the local organization. A capacity crowd was present to enjoy the party and to take part in the program of sending gifts to hospitalized veterans at the Veterans' Administration Hospital at Alexandria.

Post Commander Harold Martin served as master of ceremonies and did an excellent job of keeping things going smoothly.

Charles Littleton directed the singing of Christmas carols and the numbers given by the group of young people from the Central Baptist Church. This was a very enjoyable part of the program. Miss Clarice Roan, of the Roan School of Dancing, was present to direct her pupils in a floor show that was certainly a credit to her school. Mrs. Walter Beal was accompanist. This was very pleasing to all present and especially enjoyed by all the children. Santa made his appearance as promised. He entered the club room carrying a huge tray of Christmas candles, gum, etc. Many children brought their letters and talked with him about their gifts for Christmas.

Best of all was the great number of beautifully wrapped packages that were brought to be sent immediately to the Veterans' Hospital. At the conclusion of the entertainment hot coffee, chocolate, home baked cake and assorted cookies were served.

Members all agreed that it was a wonderful party and Mrs. Martha Newman, auxiliary president, and Commander Harold Martin wish to express their gratitude to friends who were so interested and did so much to help in making it such a wonderful success.

Two Boys Arrested For Looting Parking Meters

Two 13-year-old boys were apprehended by the Monroe police department Friday night for burglarizing parking meters in the downtown area.

Captain Hugh Tolbert stated that on the night of December 12 the two youths had broken open four meters on Washington street between North Third and Fourth. On the night of December 13, the juveniles entered nine parking meters on Catalpa between Oak and Wood and on Harrison between Catalpa and Hall streets, said Tolbert.

Before entering meters on the night of December 12 the two youths had broken into the Wilkinson Motor Company, 309 Washington, and the R and K Cafe, 307 Washington, said officers.

When the youths were apprehended officers found in their possession a hammer and some nickels and pennies taken from the broken parking meters.

The youths were turned over to Mrs. Willie Harris, juvenile officer.

RADIO SET TAX

Belgrade.—(A)—The air may be free, but the privilege of listening to the radio here in Communist Yugoslavia isn't.

Like other public services and goods here, the government assessment for owning a radio set has gone up recently — from $14.40 to $60.00 annually.

It doesn't make any difference if you only turn on the current, or if you listen exclusively to foreign broadcasts such as those beamed directly this way by BBC and the Voice of America.

Radio Belgrade, state operated without income from advertising, suggested recently that radios were subject to seizure unless their owners paid their quarterly installments for their use.

PRESBYTERIANS PLANNING DRAMA

'Why The Chimes Ring' Will Be Presented In Christmas Program

"Why the Chimes Rang" will be the short drama presented as the annual Christmas program of the First Presbyterian Church next Sunday at 7:30 in the evening. The public is cordially invited to attend this Christmas worship service. The program with traditional carols is planned to interest persons of all ages, and the church nursery will be open for children under six years of age.

This beautiful Christmas story will be told by Mr. Pete Linton, popular local radio announcer, with appropriate background music by Mr. Leon Hammonds at the church organ. As the story is narrated, the play itself will unfold in costumed pantomime, accompanied by the Presbyterian choir under the direction of Mr. Harry Lemert. The cast includes Dr. Ernest D. Holloway, minister, Bobby Johnson, David and Dianne Garrett as Little Sister. Others in the cast are Mrs. Sidney Stroud, Mr. Lorenzo Smith, Mrs. A. F. Garrett, Mrs. Hoy T. Anders, Miss Freeda Mickel, Mr. B. C. Root, Jr., Mr. R. L. Kiper, Miss Margaret Ann Hunter, Mrs. John H. Crump is soloist for the program.

Every year at Christmas a joy gift is taken throughout the Presbyterian churches in this country for the support of retired ministers, their wives and children, according to Mrs. William C. Scott, chairman of annuities and relief, who is directing this local program. Others on her committee are Mrs. T. Mickel, Mrs. C. G. Pearce, Jr., and Mrs. Al E. Bensley. Dr. Holloway will lead the joy gift dedication service.

This offering enables the Presbyterian board of annuities and relief to forward monthly checks to the retired servants of the church and their families. On March 31, 1951, there were 8 such homes: 217 aged ministers, 21 disabled ministers, 210 widows of ministers, and 39 orphans of ministers. Also checks went to 312 homes of ministers retired on inadequate annuities, making a total of 99 families aided by the joy gift.

Monroe Garden Club Members Tour Four Lovely Homes Monday

Monroe Garden Club members and their guests were entertained Monday afternoon when they toured four lovely holiday decorated homes during the annual Garden Club Christmas tour.

A children's Christmas party was held at the home of Mrs. King Stubbs where the tour began. In the reception hall was the beautifully decorated Christmas tree with ornaments and gaily wrapped Christmas packages. Over the mantel in the den was a deer head with a red electric light in his nose portraying Rudolph. On the mantel was an arrangement of greenery and lighted red candles with the three stockings hung above the fireplace. Centering the dining table was the cone shaped Christmas tree made of popcorn. Surrounding the arrangement were miniature popcorn trees and greenery with snowballs placed at intervals. On the buffet table was the unique snow scene picturing Santa and his reindeer. Mrs. Travis Oliver, Jr., served as chairman. Other hostesses were Mrs. R. L. Davis, Mrs. Louis Hall, Mrs. John Theus, Mrs. Mike John, Jr., Mrs. A. B. Myatt, Jr., Mrs. James Sparks, and Mrs. A. Scott Hamilton.

At the home of Mrs. Veggie Rivers where a family dinner was shown was the exquisite table setting in the dining room. The central decor, a silver and crystal epergne held beautiful red roses with bunches of green grapes placed in the crystal bowls. A colorful arrangement of fruits was placed on the sideboard. In the living room six large white burning candles were placed on the mantel with Christmas balls and greens placed on each side of the mirror. On a tiered table was a pink tarlatan Christmas tree with silver stars surrounded by delicate pink camellias. The coffee table held pink mints while Christmas packages in pink and white were piled high on the tiered table. Fisherman files adorned the tiny tree in the den and in the sun room was a holly tree and straw basket which held red carnations, pine cones and greenery.

Mrs. E. L. Marchman was chairman, assisted by Mrs. James A. Noe, Mrs. Lea Thompson, Mrs. C. T. Munholland, Mrs. DeWitt Milam, Mrs. Monty Carbone.

Open house was held at the home of Mrs. E. J. Seymour with Mrs. W. J. Riley, assisting as chairman. Other hostesses included Mrs. J. B. Thornhill, Mrs. B. W. Biedenharn, Mrs. N. G. Gaston, Mrs. Corbin Turpin, Mrs. Fred Amman, Mrs. O. N. Grisham, Mrs. Kennedy Abington, Mrs. Tom Keller, Mrs. Stanley Mintz, Mrs. Henry Bernstein, Jr., Mrs. Richard Port, Mrs. Henry Mayo, Mrs. V. H. Reitzell and Mrs. J. B. Parker. Christmas decorations were placed at vantage points with the center of attraction in the lovely dining room. A massive arrangement of fruit surrounded the attractive silver punch bowl which held a frozen block of punch and fruit. Grapes and kumquats were placed on top of this arrangement. White tapers in silver candelabra flanked this centerpiece.

A garden Christmas tree was the attraction at the home of Miss Emma Lou Biedenharn. A crepe myrtle tree in the garden, which had been sprayed with silver, was tied with numerous Christmas bells. Mrs. H. K. Touchstone, chairman, was assisted by Mrs. Gilbert Faulk, Mrs. Louis Peters, Mrs. J. B. Kugler, Mrs. Vernon Maish, and Mrs. W. N. Reynolds.

Mrs. J. K. Brothers, Jr., was chairman of the event and was assisted by Mrs. John Sherrouse, Jr., president of the garden club.

CATHOLIC DAUGHTERS ATTEND 23RD BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

The 23rd "birthday party" of the Catholic Daughters of America held Sunday, December 9, was a glowing success. All attended the eleven o'clock mass in a body. This was followed by a highly successful luncheon at the Rendezvous. Mrs. Marguerite Heller and Mrs. Loretha Monaco served as chairmen. The decoration committee: Mrs. Grace McCarthy, Mrs. Flo Kelly, Mrs. Theriot, Mrs. Rose Pyle, Miss Jessie Mae Ellington surpassed themselves. At this time the table was truly a festive board for the sixty members who gathered to celebrate this momentous occasion.

The central decor was a most artistic arrangement of yellow and purple asters with gold spears. Gold and purple bells held together by satin ribbon which extended down to the full length of the luncheon table. The whole thing was indeed a work of art accomplished by this committee who were anxious to excel at this time with the presence of our Most Right Reverend Bishop Charles P. Greco, bishop of Alexandria who presided at this luncheon meeting. Monsignor John C. Marsh, court chaplain and Miss Druella Doiron, state deputy were among the notables.

Visitors who honored members with their presence were: Mrs. Mary C. Santiago, Miss Una Doiron, Miss Druella Doiron, grand regent, all from Court Bishop Desmond. Mrs. C. L. Lawrence, Mrs. Chas. Crockett, Mrs. A. M. Moore, Mrs. Wangler, Mrs. Katie Parr, Mrs. Jessie Rateau, Mrs. Julia Michiels, Miss Maude Campbell, Court Gibbons, Miss Aline Soulier, grand regent, Mrs. Ed Hochenedel, Mrs. Jewel Casteix, Miss Olga Firmin, Miss Mary Lee Cambre, court notre dame.

Candidates received into the court were: Mrs. Lillian Elias, Mrs. Barbara Olsen, Mrs. Louise Jobeur and Miss Beverly Andre. Re-instated: Mrs. Louise Rizzo. Miss Doiron, grand regent, spoke briefly to the newly elected members, stressing the importance of attending meetings, keeping their interest in court work alive, cooperating in all projects planned and above all, calling on their willingness to assume responsibility and to use their initiative when needed.

Monsignor Marsh acted as toast master and after a few introductory remarks, he called on Mrs. Marie Mulhern, grand regent, court St. Matthew, 1144, who in a very poised manner enumerated the steps of the court progress during her regime. Father Marsh, as we prefer to call him, then called on all past grand regents who were present to reiterate any development made during their term of office. Those who were present and responded were: Miss Mamie Campbell, Mrs. Marguerite Morrison, Miss Leona Biggar and Mrs. Gladys Watkins. Each regent received great applause as they unfolded the story of their two years tenure. This contributing a large part toward perfecting the court motto: "Unity and Charity." The bishop delighted his listeners with words of encouragement and congratulatory remarks.

The business meeting was followed by a social hour at which time the committee served gold colored punch and cake squares of gold embossed with the initials C. D. A.

Girl Scout News

Yesterday Intermediate Girl Scouts took over one of the Salvation Army booths - a piece of community service they enjoy doing every year. Troops which manned the booth from 9:00 a. m. until 6:00 p. m. were: Troops No. 1, 10, 11, 14, 15, 32, 35, 40, and 41.

One of the most active Brownie troops - a large troop, too, is Number 7, with Mrs. William Roy, and Mrs. Sidney Williams as leaders. These fourth grade girls went on a trip to Cloverleaf Dairy at their Thursday meeting time to see what happens to the milk which is poured from bottle or carton at meal time. They thoroughly satisfied their curiosity by observing every detail, so their leaders report.

These girls regularly bring outgrown clothing to meetings to be sent to a little girl a bit younger who depends upon this troop for most of her clothing. Next week the girls are planning to take scrapbooks they have made to the children at the Charity Hospital.

A lot of news that is very hush comes our way at this time of the year when many Scouts are using meeting time to make gifts for mother or dad. We've heard of two troops, 1 and 10, that have learned to do glass etching. Wonder if that has any connection with Christmas?

After the girls have planned for some piece of service for others, then it is only natural that they want to do something special as a troop at Christmas. Most troops it seems will have parties instead of troop meetings next week. One that has already taken place was the one Troop 32 held Friday at the home of their leader, Mrs. W. H. Luton. These eighth - grade girls are starting their fifth year in scouting and are old enough to plan and carry out projects without too much assistance from their leader.

As their Christmas service project the girls of Troop 16 took small Christmas trees to one of the homes for the aged, where they decorated a tree for each room, afterward singing carols and distributing fruit and sweets to their guests. These seventh grade girls from Crosley School have recently acquired the new teen - age uniforms and do they look smart! Leaders of the troop are Mrs. T. G. Kincaid and Miss La Verne Causey.

Let us know, girls and leaders, through the office, what your troop is doing.

Bridal Parties Continue For Miss Shelby Meek

Bastrop Brunch And Dessert-Bridge Among Many Courtesies Extended Bride-Elect

One of the loveliest of parties being held in Bastrop for Miss Shelby Meek was the brunch given by Mrs. Webb Madison, Mrs. J. C. Young and Mrs. Dan Fields Monday from 11:30 a. m. until 1:30 p. m.

Receiving the guests with Miss Meek, who was wearing a navy sheer dress trimmed with large rhinestone buttons, were her mother, Mrs. Shelby Meek, and the bridegroom-elect's mother, Mrs. Edward Lee Gladney, Jr. The honoree wore a becoming corsage of bright colored small Christmas balls, bells and greenery tied with red ribbon, a gift of her hostesses.

Gay Christmas decorations of greens, red candles and berries were used with two lovely white Christmas trees, one of white tataran decorated with vari-colored stars and one of white foam decorated with Christmas angels. The central decor of the lovely antique table was of Christmas greens, red candles and berries with large varicolored Christmas balls. The chandelier was elaborately decorated with wide red satin ribbon and beautiful Christmas balls.

A delicious brunch was served

The Home Shift With

Mildred Swift

Christmas is in the air everywhere these days! Don't you love that fresh fragrance of evergreens and Christmas trees—the hurrying crowds—the gay holiday decorations.

Treasured Memories

Speaking of decorations—The Monroe Garden Club tour last Monday was a special treat for members and guests—something that will be a treasured memory. Beginning at Sue Stubbs' 2106 Island Drive we saw something different in a wreath for the front door. This one was made entirely of jolly pops. Who but clever girls like Mamie Davis, Kitty Oliver and Lily Sparks would have thought of that? In the dining room there was the clearest Christmas tree. Bea Johns found me on my knees all but turning the tree upside down to see how it was made, so I could share the information with you. Sue Stubbs and Louise Theus made a large cone of chicken wire about 27 inches high. This was covered with cardboard and iced with pale, pale green icing made with powdered sugar and vinegar. While the icing was still damp, they almost covered the tree with popcorn (popped, of course). The children in the family will love making one like that. Tiny trees, exactly like the large one, made a circle around the table. Ice cream cones, turned upside down were used for these.

Jewel Rivers, 1618 Park Avenue used a tricky idea for a Christmas tree in her den. A small spruce was covered with fisherman's flies—that's all—quite different and effective. Jewel's living room has some pick-up tones of pink, so Mary Lee Milam made a pink tulle Christmas tree to harmonize. This was the daintiest tree I have ever seen. She used graduated size stars on a pink candle. I can't describe it to you in detail and can't get Mary Lee on the phone, so you just call her to get full instructions.

I was so entranced with Louise Seymour's house (1507 Park Avenue) that I completely forgot to look at the Christmas motif used. All I can remember is white poinsettias in the entrance hall and the gorgeous view of her back yard from the picture window. The wall enclosing the yard is exactly the shade green that walls were meant to be. The color melts into the green of the winter grass and shrubs. Yes—a memory not to be forgotten.

Emmy Lou Biedenbarn's garden (2006 Riverside) is always an inspiration for her friends. She used a crepe myrtle growing to the back of the house and covered it with starch until it was snow white. From every limb, large and small, white outdoor bells with red bows were swinging. Plastic snow flakes gave a sparkly look that glistened when the lights were turned on. Perfect for her garden.

Tricky Christmas Gifts
I found Josephine Conger wrapping boxes of pencils to send to nieces and nephews (and of course to grandson Bill). Every pencil had the receiver's name on it. She tells me these were purchased at a downtown gift shop. Lucy Knapp is giving red organdy aprons to her friends to wear on Christmas day while serving the traditional meal. Margaret Webb is making clever Chinese Cooile hats out of scraps of velveteen, with matching scarves. Mrs. Joe Hanna dressed a Gode! doll, copying the bride's dress from a McCall's magazine published in 1887.

I wanted to tell you about the College Heights Garden Club Christmas luncheon table—well—we'll wait until next Sunday for that. Hortense Touchstone says the column is never long enough. What about today Hortense?

See you in this same column next Sunday.

The Lake Providence Legion Auxiliary Has Annual Toy Banquet

Lake Providence, La., Dec. 15.—(Special) — In planning for the Christmas season members of Powell Martin Barrett Unit No. 37, Lake Providence, used the November meeting for the annual toy banquet for collection of gifts for Shreveport hospital veterans and their families, through the rehabilitation program, Mrs. S. L. House, Jr., chairman.

There were 161 articles brought to the meeting, divided into groups of cosmetics, jewelry, stationery, clothing and miscellaneous, valued at approximately $285. The drawing that centered the gift table with wish "Merry Christmas For Vets" is by talented Billy Wainwright, Lake Providence High School student.

One of the major activities of the Legion Auxiliary is the great task of caring for disabled veterans of World Wars I and II, who are still hospitalized, and assisting thousands of other veterans to regain a place in civil life. Women, who themselves have experienced the suffering of war, can offer that warmth of understanding which no other agency can fulfill.

The Christmas season for members of Powell Martin Barrett Unit will be brighter for having remembered those whose Christmas would not have been so happy had they not remembered — and their happiness will be found in the words "In as much as ye have done it unto one of the least of these."

News From The Public Library

Have you ever considered the advantages of following a plan in your reading? Every year the Louisiana State library issues a reading list for the guidance of those who like to learn as they read. The purpose of this list is to encourage readers to read books on a variety of subjects and thus broaden their interests. A person who reads at least 12 books from this list, distributed over the various categories will be awarded a certificate next November. You may say to yourself "Why would I want a certificate?" However, you will be much more inclined to read books from all the groups if you are trying for a certificate than if you are not trying.

This year 100 people in Ouachita parish earned certificates. Our goal for next year is 200. Won't you come to your branch of the Ouachita Parish Public Library very soon and enroll in this reading plan? The list for this year is called "Joyful Reading" and there are several different categories in the list. Some of the books are most interesting.

The first group is called "Sports and Hobbies." In this group are found books dealing with all sorts of sports: horseracing, baseball, sailing, fishing, etc. The second group is called "Books-Music-Art." It contains a wide variety of books, some serious and some humorous. One of the most delightful books in this group is Vance Randolph's "We Always Lie To Strangers," a collection of tall tales from the Ozarks. Many of them are extremely funny.

The third group is called "Adventure Afield." In this class are found many fascinating stories about the far places of the earth. "The Heart of Asia" by Roy Chapman Andrews, is a collection of fabulous tales which the author brought back from his long years in the east. "Drums Behind the Hill" by Mrs. Ursula Bower is a readable record of the author's experiences in the hill country of India. This book contributes much to our knowledge about the Naga tribes. "Cracks in the Kremlin Wall" by Edward Frankshaw presents a level, unhyperbolic view of Russia today by an Englishman well versed in her past.

The fourth group is known as "Lives, Private and Otherwise," and contains several fascinating biographies. "The Dionne Legend" by Lillian Barker is written by a syndicated writer for the New York News who has kept in close contact with the Dionnes since 1935. She feels that they have been most unfairly treated by Dr. Dafoe. "The Fifth Chinese Daughter," by J. S. Wong is an engrossing story of an American girl of Chinese parentage and her life in San Francisco.

Books in the fifth group deal with "You, Your Home, and Your Children." Celeste Carlyle has written a delightful and valuable book in "Individually Yours." This is a guide to personal beauty and charm. Another book of this type is "Guide to Glamour" by Terry Hunt. This book gives advice on exercises, diet, grooming and other topics of interest to a girl or woman who is interested in the impression she makes on other people.

Books in the sixth group are "Related to Our History." A book which everyone should enjoy is "Great Mistakes of the War" by H. W. Baldwin. This book was written by the military editor of the New York Times. It is a very short book which lists the mistakes which the author thinks are responsible for the present cold war. "Calculated Risk," by General Mark W. Clark is an honest and forceful book. It is one of the best books to come from World War II's top brass. It is General Clark's own account of the Allied campaign in Italy and his part in it.

The seventh group is called "Specialized Books on a Variety of Subjects." A very interesting book in this group is "Firm Faith for Today," by H. A. Bosley. This book contains chapters on the main affirmations of the traditional creeds of Christendom. "Crime in America," is a first hand description of the Kefauver findings. It is most interesting.

Mrs. Neal McHenry Entertains Miro Book Club Members

Mrs. Thomas Jett Reviews Two Interesting Books At December Meeting

The Miro Book Club held its regular meeting Monday afternoon, 2:30 P. M. in the lovely plantation home of Mrs. Neal McHenry. All members expressed delight over the trip to Mrs. McHenry's home. The quiet of the country and the beauty of recently decorated rooms lent an atmosphere of true southern hospitality that one has learned to expect from the charming hostess and to appreciate.

The president, Mrs. B. L. Mulhern, presided at the meeting. Before beginning with the agenda of the day, Mrs. Mulhern graciously welcomed the guest of the afternoon, Mrs. R. N. Cochran, sister of the hostess. Three new members were elected to the club, namely: Mrs. John Pracher, Mrs. F. L. Smith and Mrs. Irving Wolff. The first two named have been former members of Miro Book Club, and it is with great pleasure to greet them back in our midst. We feel proud of a full membership. We welcome our new members and happily anticipate the joy of our future study with them.

After the president concluded the routine business, the meeting was turned over to the program chairman, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, who explained a change in her plans for the afternoon entertainment. Mrs. Tidwell always lends charm to her program. After a few explanatory remarks, she introduced Mrs. Thos. Jett, professional book reviewer, who held her audience spellbound as she reviewed two interesting books.

The first was: "A Diary From Dixie" by Mary Boykin Chestnut.

most valuable source book on life in the south during the Civil War, as the writer by her position, was welcomed wherever southern leaders moved. Mrs. Jett cleverly pointed out the book, highlighting the ludicrous points and in some instances the spicy gossip that goes to make this book the background of a southern story of realism, scandal, valor, generosity, greed, and lastly, one of self-sacrifice of which our heroine was a great part.

Mrs. Jett further displayed her versatility as reviewer by giving the serious study of "Mr. Lincoln's Army" by Bruce Catton. This is a story of Lincoln's famous army of the Potomac during the early years of the Civil War under the command of the dashing General McClellan. Here, we find real hardships, strategic planning, disappointment and, above all, the wounded pride of the arrogant general who was known as the romance of the army, and whose opinion of himself was so much overrated. One could visualize General McClellan as one not living up to this high opinion because he had failed to enlarge his character when given full authority and command of the army. We see him as one pushing aside the many opportunities to act as a leader and finally, we see him humiliated beyond words, not only by demotion but by dismissal with a complete surrender of his command to General Burnside.

Never forgetting, along with the author, that the most important thing about a war is the men who fight it, the reviewer, while depicting General McClellan, did not fail to give him credit for much courage. The scenes she so admirably presented were, so to speak, woven into a tapestry of that particular era, and we, who had the pleasure of hearing Mrs. Jett, can feel but indebted to her for giving us two such worthwhile books.

Those present who shared in this intellectual pleasure were: Mrs. W. M. Greenwell, Mrs. Thos. Jett, Mrs. D. W. Moore, Sr., Mrs. B. L. Mulhern, Mrs. J. W. Murphey, Mrs. A. B. Myatt, Mrs. A. L. Peters, Mrs. Geo. Temple, Mrs. A. S. Tidwell, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, Mrs. Henry.

Prenuptial Parties Honor

Miss Loraine McClendon

Miscellaneous Shower And Dinner Party Are Among Affairs Given Bride-Elect

Christmas decorations in red and green were used Monday night when Miss Peggy Newcomer and Miss Betty Jean Jones entertained at a miscellaneous shower honoring Miss Loraine McClendon.

An artistic centerpiece of red berries was used on the lace covered table.

The bride-elect chose for this occasion a purple knitted suit with which she wore a corsage of white chrysanthemums, a gift of the hostesses.

Each guest attending the bridal event brought a letter written by them and marked on the envelope the date to open and to answer. The first letter will be opened January 1st by Miss McClendon who will reside in California following her marriage.

The honoree was the recipient of many lovely gifts of silver, china and linen which were presented to her in a clever manner.

A delicious salad course was served with cookies to the following: Miss McClendon, Mrs. H. B. McClendon, mother of the bride-elect, Mrs. J. W. McClendon, Mrs. Glen Newcomer, Sr., Mrs. W. W. Sullivan, Mrs. Kenneth Aswell, Mrs. Max Dillingham, Miss Mary Sue Lee, Miss Lovenie Gould, Miss Sue Henderson, Miss Norma Howze, Miss Deanne Bezz, Miss Polly Ragland, Miss Mary Lea Miller and the two hostesses, Miss Newcomer, and Miss Jones.

Dinner Party
Also complimentary to Miss McClendon was the dinner party given by Mrs. Francis Orlie, Mrs. Amos Hood, Mrs. Warren McGee and Miss Katherine Averette at the Rendezvous Thursday evening.

Miss McClendon was radiant in a brown crepe dress which she chose for this occasion. She wore brown accessories and a corsage of bronze chrysanthemums with tiny gold bells, a gift from the hostesses.

The hostesses also presented the bride-elect with beautifully wrapped gifts which contained pieces of silver in her chosen pattern.

A unique arrangement of white carnations centered the dinner table with an archway in the midst

What To Do With The Food Freezer When Power Is Off

"Recent studies have helped us to determine what steps to take to save the food in the freezer when the power is off for several hours or days," states Mrs. Mildred G. Swift. "Some of us are unduly alarmed when this happens, but it is well to remember that foods do not thaw as rapidly in the freezer as one would think. There are many factors which determine the rapidity of thawing and consequent spoiling. It is well to bear them in mind: How full is the freezer—What temperature is ordinarily maintained—How well insulated is the freezer—What kinds of foods are stored—What is the size of the freezer?"

The Agent says: 1. A full freezer takes much longer to warm up than one one-half to one-quarter full. 2. The lower the temperature maintained more leeway. 3. The amount of insulation will affect the rate at which the temperature will rise. 4. Of importance are the kinds and pounds of food. More pounds the longer it takes to thaw. 5. The smaller the freezer, the quicker it will warm up. 6. Proper sanitation in preparing foods will help retard spoilage.

Never open the freezer during this period unless absolutely necessary. Also, it is probable that in a well-insulated freezer measuring from 12 cu. feet up no spoilage is apt to occur within five days of no power.

Dry ice will help to keep the temperature down if the power is to be cut off over 24 hours. Fifty pounds of dry ice, chipped or sawed into small pieces and arranged on heavy cardboard can be placed directly over the packaged foods.

When fruits thaw they ferment. This changes flavor, but the food is not poisonous. The thawed fruit can also be used in jellies, jams and preserves.

With meat and poultry the conditions are different. Because they are non-acid, they are subject to putrefactive bacterial spoilage. You must examine each package carefully. If the package contains some ice, you can re-freeze it without risk. If thawed, but the odor is fresh, it may be cooked and eaten. Do not re-freeze meat which has thawed out entirely.

Because shell-fish and vegetables are also non-acid, do not re-freeze these when completely thawed. If there is still ice in the package and they can be re-frozen in less than 12 hours, it is usually safe to refreeze.

There are times when the only solution is to can the thawed food to save it.

Therefore, keep the canning equipment in good condition.

MISS FRANCES FLANDERS IS GUEST SPEAKER AT WELCOME BRANCH BOOK CLUB MEETING

Miss Frances Flanders was guest speaker at the Welcome Branch Book Club when the club was entertained by Mrs. A. J. Speer on Wednesday.

The meeting was opened by the members and guests giving the pledge of allegiance to the flag, and the club collect.

Miss Juanita Porter, Woman of the Year, was a welcomed guest.

The club president, Mrs. Fred Hornberger, presided over the brief business session. The club voted to participate in the Salvation Army project, the ringing of the bells at the kettles.

Mrs. A. C. Warner, program chairman, presented Miss Flanders librarian of Ouachita Parish Public Library, who spoke on American heritage. This was a delightful historical summary of the United States history.

In part, Miss Flanders said, "The movement of people to America was the greatest movement of all times. Three-fourths of the people were English. Our heritage was built on English knowledge of architecture, literature, and folklore. Scotch-Irish promoted education, and were responsible for independence. The Dutch kept up the battle of religious freedom. The Quakers contributed high ideals. The Swedes and Huguenots also contributed. Democracy has been growing along time and has not been completed yet."

Mrs. W. H. Giles, chairman of civil defense, spoke on women in civil defense. Mrs. Giles said that women will be called upon to carry at least half of the civil defense responsibilities of our country. They will be trained for nurses aids, driving, teaching and communication. It is hoped that women will concern themselves with developing essential spiritual and psychological strength and unit that is necessary to sustain our cause.

Miss Nancy Faye Holdiness Is Bride Of L. Eugene Johnston

Impressive Wedding Ceremony Is Solemnized At Alto Baptist Church

A wedding characterized by sweet simplicity was celebrated on Wednesday, November twenty-first at five o'clock in the afternoon at the Alto Baptist Church, when Miss Nancy Faye Holdiness, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Holdiness of Alto, and Mr. Eugene Johnston, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Johnston of Archibald, were united in marriage. Rev. R. L. Ross, Jr., of Monroe read the vows in the presence of a large congregation of friends and relatives of the young couple.

The church was an ideal setting for the occasion with its lovely garden of southern smilax on the chance rail and entwined over the windows. The vows were exchanged under wedding bells suspended from the center of an arch flanked on either side by tapered burning in candelabra. Baskets of white specimen chrysanthemums placed at advantageous points completed the picture. Miss Sallie Marie Lyles of Alto, rendered a pre-nuptial concert, playing "Oh, Promise Me," "Indian Love Call," "The Rosary" and "One Alone." During the ceremony "Frammenti" was softly played. The wedding march from Longfellow was played as the procession, while Mendelssohn's was used as the recessional. Miss Peggy Sue Boughton of Magham sang in a beautiful voice, "Wonderful One" and "Because." As a benediction she sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride entering on the arm of her father was radiantly lovely in a traditional wedding gown of white satin which was fashioned with a scalloped edged yoke of real lace embroidered with seed pearls and long tapered sleeves fastened with satin covered buttons. Satin covered buttons also fastened the back of the scalloped low-dipped waist. The skirt very full fell in graceful folds forming a modified train. The finger tip veil of illusion was caught to her hair by a tiara of scalloped lace embroidered with seed pearls. She carried white chrysanthemums centered with a white orchid. For tradition she wore something old, something new, and something blue, also a penny in her shoe. For something borrowed and old she wore as an only ornament her mother's grandmother's wedding ring.

The bridesmaids, Miss Sylvia Jones of Mangham, a friend of the bride, and Miss Marie Johnston, sister of the groom, wore dresses the exact replica of the brides in a blue taffeta. They carried bouquets of pink chrysanthemums and wore small pink chrysanthemums in their hair. The maid of honor, Miss Bennie Marilyn Holdiness, sister of the bride, wore an exact replica of the brides' dress in pink taffeta. She carried blue chrysanthemums and wore small blue chrysanthemums in her hair. Little Miss Tanya Gale Fuller, cousin of the bride, wore an exact model of the maid's dresses in blue taffeta. She carried a small basket of pink and blue chrysanthemums. Little Jeffrey Lynn Holdiness, brother of the bride carried the rings on a double heart satin pillow.

Mr. Harry McKay of Archibald served the groom as best man. Messrs. Jerry Thomason of Alto and Marvin Johnston, brother of the groom, of Archibald served as ushers.

Two of the deacons of Alto Baptist Church, Messrs. Claude and Douglas Brown lighted the candles. Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. Miss Gloria Dean Grant of Archibald presided over the guestbook while Miss Gloria Hixon cousin of the bride passed out napkins in the reception line. Mrs. W. M. Hallack, aunt of the bride cut and served the wedding cake and Mrs. Ed. Nelson Williamson served the punch. Mrs. Holdiness chose for her daughters wedding a pearl gray crepe with black accessories. She wore a pink chrysanthemum corsage. Mrs. Johnston was wearing a duobone suit with black accessories. Her corsage was also of pink chrysanthemums.

Dad's at the Switch

AP Newsfeatures

It's a safe bet that Dad is going to be the first one playing with that new electric train on Christmas morning.

There's something about a train, say toy salesmen, that has an irresistible appeal for practically all males, especially grown-up ones. That's why so many fathers rush out to buy an elaborate electric train for Junior along with his first rattles.

This year's trains hold more thrills than ever for railroad fans young and old, say salesmen of one of the big electric train companies.

The toy trains are copied from blueprints of real ones, and will do just about everything a full scale train will do. Latest models puff real smoke, have locomotive whistles and diesel sirens, couple and uncouple automatically.

Among new gadgets to add to the system is an automatic gateman, to warn motorists of approaching trains, a new transformer that operates up to four train sets simultaneously on different tracks, derails, milk cars and even a new station that announces trains.

So it looks like a merry Christmas for all living room engineers, young and old.

Stumped For Christmas? Here's How To Find Yourself Happy Bankruptcy

New York —(NEA)— There are always a few last-minute Christmas presents that have to be bought. If you've run out of ideas here's a little trinket any girl would like to get—a thara made of huge, perfectly-matched diamonds. The price tag is $150,000. Plus tax.

For the benefit of tardy Christmas shoppers, the following is a list of stocking stuffers and little baubles that have the holiday spirit. They all say Merry Christmas and Happy Bankruptcy.

If you want to spend between $3742.18 and $11,876.94, you have a wide choice. For Her (or for She) there's nothing nicer than a mink coat, if you'll pardon the expression. You can get a nice one "in the new 45-inch length" for $3850.

There's a sweet little pair of earrings dotted with rubies, diamonds and carved emeralds that'll set you back $8500 the pair. If the gal has only one ear, they'll break up the pair. A gift that will be well-received is a gay emerald-cut diamond ring, that costs $12,300.

Don't forget pop on Christmas. He'd like a dandy golf pocket watch that has a built-in roulette wheel. It costs $365. If he's the sporty type, you can get a set of buttons to replace his sports jacket buttons. They're sterling silver, made into the shape of birds' heads. At $5.50 each, you can do a job on his jacket for $22.

Another little item the old man might like is a pair of cuff links made from antique Greek coins. The cost is $1000. Those would be particularly appreciated if he likes antiques. Or if he's a Greek.

Sometimes a nice gift is a set of jewelry accessories for a woman. For instance, you can get a pleasant little compact of yellow gold set with pearls for $1100. A matching lipstick case is $570. A non-matching lipstick is 50 cents.

Here are some other appropriate gifts:

A ladies' sweater, decorated with jewels—$70.

An evening gown that is advertised "for nights of enchantment, sprinkled with stardust." That extra stardust brings it up to $225.

For the home, nothing could be nicer than a mustard pot. There's one in ceramics with a silver cover for $12.50.

with tear-drops made of white gold—$175.

Perhaps the man on your list needs a little address book. There's a nice one in alligator leather with a gold pencil—$43.

You might like the idea of giving him an identification bracelet, especially if he's the kind who forgets who he is. A handsome one in silver costs $90.

There's a necklace shaped like a snake, made of gold and enamel with snake eyes of rubies—$2800. If you want to give her a mink, but not a whole coat's worth, you can get a lipstick with a mink case for $15.

Little trinkets for the girls that are nice are gold thimbles ($16.80), gold bobby-pins ($17), a brooch of diamonds and platinum ($15,000), gold pill boxes ($225), and a dainty gold-and-diamond cigarette case ($1100).

Odds and ends for men include gold-and-silver belt buckles ($150), gold money clips ($60), hand-carved chessmen ($75), a black pincer and gold cigarette case ($975), and a combination tie clasp and corkscrew ($45).

In case this high-fashion Christmas shopping wears you out, be kind to yourself and give yourself a Christmas present. A brand new checkbook would be appropriate.

TRINKET: Jewelry gifts (minus the girl) in this picture would add up to about $3,250.00—if you could buy them. For smaller pocketbooks, there are earrings (rubies, diamonds and emeralds) as low as $8500 a pair.

Miss Kathleen McKay Is Honored At Bridal Party

Mrs. Gladys Miles Entertains Bride-Elect At Lovely Miscellaneous Shower

Miss Kathleen McKay, whose marriage to Mr. Joe Larson Ragland will take place on December 30th, was honored with a miscellaneous shower by Mrs. Gladys Miles on Monday evening.

The bride-elect was lovely in a tulle gown of Hunter's green velvet with accessories of brown. Her corsage, a gift from the hostess, was fashioned of white carnations.

White tapers in crystal candelabras, holly and Christmas berries formed a decorative background in the living room, where Mrs. Miles received the guests, assisted by Mrs. Agnes Krogmire, Mrs. J. L. Seldenspinner and Mrs. Bessie Skinner.

A clever skit in the form of an audience participation program was broadcast from Station WED 500N. Mrs. Miles acted as Master of ceremonies and Mrs. Bessie Skinner, the founder, made an enviable reputation for fair dealing and his firm reflected his integrity.

His death last July caused the public to wonder what would happen to the business, but his wife, well trained in the insurance line, has carried it on with success, reflecting the 23 years that she had been associated with her husband in business.

This firm, as sound as ever, represents a number of old line companies and handles automobile, burglary, accident liability, plate glass, bonds and all other forms of insurance with the exception of life insurance.

DOROTHY DIX

Marriage-Hopper

Man Advised Not To Make Habit Of Changing Wives

DEAR MISS DIX: I have a very influential professional position in my community. Four years ago I married a very nice girl. At that time I thought she would be an ideal wife for one in my position. For two years our home was very happy. Then another man destroyed that happiness and the home became a wreck. We separated, she taking our two children. A few months ago I married again and now have a fine wife whom I love very dearly. Two weeks ago my first wife wrote, asking me to give her another chance for the children's sake. I would like very much to be with her for the sake of our youngsters but I don't love her. Should I break up my present marriage in order to be with my children? My first wife still hasn't signed the divorce papers. P. C.

ANSWER: Your final statement brings up an alarming complication to your problem. It is possible that your second marriage is bigamous, and you should waste no time in ascertaining if this is so.

Having reached a high point in your professional career, I assume you are old enough to have some sense. With this consideration in mind, it is difficult to see how you can reconcile your marital instability with your intelligence. If you leave your second wife and go back to the first, you'll wind up yearning for No. 2 again.

THINK OF CHILDREN

Even your children will be befuddled by your recurring appearances when you begin the hop from wife to wife. If your children are being well cared for by their mother, you had better stay out of the picture for a while. Make up your mind which wife you prefer to be with, which one will create the happier home for you, which one is more faithful. But first of all, find out which one is legally yours. You might be better off away from both of them for a while. Distance may lend a better perspective to the view, and I would also advise a long talk with a good marriage counselor.

DEAR MISS DIX: I was married for three years, but am now separated from my husband. When I lived with him he did nothing but run around with girls and beat me. I have been away for three months now, am working and very happy. The other day I met my husband on the street and he asked me to come back. He said he was sorry for beating me, but somehow I can't trust him. He has made promises before and broken them. Should I give him another chance? I don't love him any more. I've taken so many of his beatings. MAGGIE

ANSWER: Believing as strongly as I do in preserving marriage and a home, I am loath to advocate separation or divorce, but I think habitual beating or other physical violence constitutes good cause for a wife leaving a husband. Since you have gone through this phase of broken promises before, you'd be foolish to try all over again. You have established yourself well on a separate maintenance basis. Going back to your husband will make you do it all over again later. A man given to wife-beating rarely reforms. The uncontrollable desire to hit someone becomes so instinctive that it cannot be stopped.

You don't love your husband anyway, so what have you to lose by staying away from him? Going back means the same procedure all over. Don't risk it!

Fun to Furnish Home

New York —(NEA)— There are some women who can walk grandly into a store and order a whole household of furnishings with as much aplomb and nonchalance as if they were purchasing a powder puff and a paper of pins.

But these self-confident creatures are few and far between, according to Freda Diamond, top-flight industrial designer. To most women, the choosing of the things that are to go into their home is a problem and a terror.

Miss Diamond is not pooh-poohing this tremendous attitude. As one of the handful of women who've carved careers in the industrial design field, she has devoted a great deal of thought to the reasons for all this fear and trembling.

One major reason is that a large percentage of girls grow up with no particular interest in the various components that go into making a house a home until the appearance of a first beau makes them suddenly — and sometimes painfully — aware of their surroundings.

Home fashion, which certainly reflects an individual's taste as much as the clothes she wears, is usually considered no concern of a young girl's until an engagement ring magically endows her with an instinct for such things.

Unfortunately, things rarely work out that way, and women remain bewildered about home furnishings not only when assembling things for their first homes, but later on, when replacements or additions are in order.

A prime weapon for whacking your way out of the morass is knowledge. Read everything you can find on the subject of home decoration, both in books and periodicals, urges Miss Diamond.

Observe closely what you see in stores, store windows and other people's homes. And above all, go shopping.

Look at all sorts and kinds of furnishings. Enlist the aid of the decorating consultant in your favorite store. You'll find out about construction, comparative prices and—most important—you'll soon find out what you don't like.

This is an important step forward. Once you've eliminated the classifications that are utterly lacking in appeal, then you can begin choosing among the pieces that do fit your ideas of beauty and function.

In choosing what you do like, forget such questions as "Is this the rage this season?" or "Will this demonstrate how much I know about home furnishings?"

Much more important are "do I honestly think this is pretty?" "Will it do the job I want it to?" and "Is it easy to care for?"

Don't get thrown off track by the various periods of furniture. After all, Miss Diamond stresses, decoration on furniture is "just the icing on the cake. Basic pieces in any style are designed to fill modern needs."

Outside, a bureau may resemble closely the kind that adorned the palace of Louis Fifteenth, but chances are the inside is planned to accommodate such touches of modern living as your typewriter or your husband's electric razor.

Versatility is one of the most important things to check before finally deciding upon a given piece, Miss Diamond points out.

The trend now is toward dual-purpose function — whether you're referring to your living-dining room or library-guest room, your versatile buffet which can double for a chest or a credenza, or your one set of glassware, which is pretty enough for company, practical enough for daily family use.

15 Cadets Named On Rifle Squad

Fifteen cadets have been chosen from the long list of tryouts to fire on the ROTC rifle team of North-east State.

Five matches have been scheduled for the spring semester and eight more teams have been challenged.

A shoulder to shoulder match with the Louisiana Tech squad is planned for the near future. Tele-graphic matches will be held with Ohio Wesleyan, Delaware, O., February 16, and Pennsylvania State College, March 15. The cadets will also enter the fourth army inter-collegiate competition, February 16. The date for the contest with John Stetson College of Delano, Fla has not been set.

Those chosen for the team are: G. A. Marx, Bryan Ritter, Jarrell Matkins, Sammy Rosier, Dan Dennett, James Huckabay, Perry Elder, M. D. Talley, Billy Whipple, Joe Broadway, Roy Aston, G. E. Parrish, Hugh Bradshaw and R. M. McConnell.

The team is being coached by Capt. Alfred L. Singer and Sgt. 1-c Victor George, both of Northeast State's military department.

Smile When Eyes Meet

BY ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

It happens often to almost everyone — suddenly, in a public place, you find your glance is locked with that of a perfect stranger. Chances are you react with embarrassment or with downright hostility.

Since the stranger's "stare" was probably no more conscious than yours was until that moment of mutual awareness, it's a bit unreasonable to scowl at him as if he'd intruded deliberately upon your privacy.

It's also ineffective to hurriedly shift your eyes — you rarely make it in time — or to squeeze forth a weak grin at having been caught, so to speak, with your subconscious showing.

There are two positive approaches to this situation. First, keep your own appearance well in hand whenever you're in public.

Then you won't have to worry about whether people are looking at your scraggly hair or mismatched clothes; nor will you be haunted by the dreadful certainty that a chance glance caught you with a jaw dropped lax or in the act of nail-biting.

It's unreasoning on such matters that can utterly dissolve your inherent poise.

The second approach is to take a less beligerent attitude when you discover you've locked eyes again. A friendly smile, as you draw your glance away, can communicate to your fellow sufferer that you're feeling a bit silly, too, but that you refuse to make an issue of such a minor matter.

At the annual meeting of Sterlington Lodge F. & A. M. on Thursday night December 13, the following officers were elected and installed:

A. L. McGough, worshipful master; Clarence W. Kihnenman, senior warden; John W. Adams, junior warden; W. Hugh Turner, P. M.; treasurer; J. B. Brasher, P. M.; secretary; Rev. T. D. The enthusiasm with which his report was received, and the unanimity with which his recommendations were endorsed by the lodge indicated that his activity had earned the confidence and esteem of the membership.

After the election of officers, the traditional annual banquet was held in the social rooms, followed by the installation of officers. The installation ceremony was conducted by Robert W. Cretney, past grand master, a past master of Sterlington Lodge, assisted by Claude Dunham, past master, as installing marshal.

At the conclusion of the installation, Past Master Dunham presented a past master's jewel to Edward Sackett, now junior past master, one to Hugh Turner who was worshipful master in 1946 and one to Daniel H. Goodwin, who presided over Sterlington lodge in 1945 and is now worshipful master of Atkins Lodge at Elm Grove, La.

ANNUAL DEBATE CONTEST HELD

Millsaps College In Jackson Host To 71 Teams Entered

Ruston, Dec. 15.—(Special)—Five Louisiana Tech debate teams attended the twelfth annual debate tournament held at Millsaps College, Jackson, Miss., recently. Seventy-one debate teams from 23 southern colleges debated the national collegiate question, "Resolved, That the Federal Government Should Adopt a Permanent Program of Wage and Price Control."

All five Tech teams won enough debates in the preliminary rounds of four debates to be permitted to enter the eliminations. Four teams advanced to quarter-finals before they were defeated.

The record of each team is as follows: Anne Connaughton and Peggy Robison of Shreveport won five debates and lost one. They were eliminated in the quarter finals by a 2 to 1 decision. They were one of the two teams in the senior women's division that won all four of their preliminary rounds.

Walter Krousel of Ruston and Glen Arnold of Shreveport won two debates and lost three in the senior men's division. The elimination debate was a 2 to 1 decision. Margaret Hunter of Delhi and Rosemary Huff of Mansfield won three and lost three in the senior women's division, reaching the quarter finals.

Peggy Frantom of Monroe and Dorothy Earp of Shreveport won four and lost three. This was the first tournament either had participated in. They were the only women's team that reached the quarter finals in the junior division which included both men and women's teams.

Ray Branton of Ruston and Duane Cloud of Castor won five debates and lost two with a 2 to 1 decision also reaching quarter finals in the junior division. Tech had two of the eight teams in the quarter finals in the junior division.

Glen Arnold also brought honors to Tech when he won in the oratorical contest preliminaries consisting of 25 speakers. He was selected, along with six other contestants, to appear in the finals for oratory where he placed fourth.

Tech debaters were accompanied on their trip by Miss Wilma Baugh, forensic director.

Jimmie Kelly Heads Jonesville Masons

NORTHSIDE LIFE LEADERS MEET

Address Of Luncheon Hour Delivered By James B. Bradley

The December meeting of the Northside Louisiana Association of Life Underwriters was held Friday noon at the Frances Hotel with Vice-President J. W. Webster presiding in the absence of President J. W. Womack.

Due to some misunderstanding as to the correct meeting time of the group, the matter was voted upon by the members and the second Friday of each month and the hour of 12 noon was agreed upon by the underwriters.

Speaker for the occasion was James B. Bradley, local C. P. A. affiliated with J. S. Garelick and Company. Mr. Bradley attended the local schools and is a graduate of Louisiana Tech, majoring in accounting and is rated as one of the most successful young accountants in the business. His talk dealing with the new income tax laws as they would affect the life insurance business as well as the individual himself proved most interesting and many complex questions were answered by Mr. Bradley to the satisfaction of their inquirers.

The date of the next regular meeting will be January 11th and the program will be announced later.

Persons suffering from diabetes seldom are troubled with seasickness.

WOODLAWN P-TA HAS MEETING

Reverend McGuire Is Speaker; Discusses Child Training

The Woodlawn Parent - Teacher Association met for the regular meeting Thursday when Rev. Douglas McGuire of Grace Methodist Church in Ruston was the guest speaker, who discussed Christian religion as applicable to child training. Before making a decision he urged that parents should ask: 'Is this a mature thing to do and would I mind if everyone knew?' Allen, Glynn Price, Sue Caples, what I am doing to this child? Billie Dykes, Bobby Foster, Wesley Clark, Bobby Johnston, James Miller, Hazel Worley, Pete Rogers, to speak? Will this procedure help to bring up a child in the way he should go? How will this decision look on God's record?'
He outlined a child's needs as: Unconditional love from parents, parents who understand that the child must be accepted just as he is because the child has to accept himself as he is, realistic give and take in a real life situation and a deep firm faith that life is worth living because God is worth serving.

Miss Louise Griggs directed the second grade in a playlet, "The Boy Who Didn't Believe in Christmas." Those who participated in the play were: Carolyn Hollis, Margie Jarvis, Linda Lewis, Patsy Allen, Glynn Price, Sue Caples, what I am doing to this child? Model Reveals Short Cuts to Charm

New York model Constance Brigham, whose secret for maintaining a peak-of-perfection appearance at all times is based upon short-cuts rather than elaborate routines, demonstrates her favorite beauty tricks. Exercise is fun, not chore, as Constance practices muscle-stretching dance steps to phonograph music (left). Hair clips, put in just after rising and worn through bath and breakfast (upper center), keep Constance's hair neat and softly waved, eliminate necessity of sleeping in pin curls. By blending her own foundation from two basic shades (lower center), she easily achieves a natural complexion. Short late-day frock (right) converts into full-length formal when snap-on cuff is attached to hem. Cuff doubles as stole when dress is worn in abbreviated form.

The question I'm asked most frequently, by women who wonder how models manage to keep their appearance always at peak of perfection, is "do you spend all your spare time on beauty routines?"
The answer is no. Although beauty is our business, models—like any other woman—lead far too busy lives to devote hours each day to elaborate good looks rituals.

My own approach to the beauty maintenance problem is to simplify things as much as possible. I've worked out a number of tricks to cut down grooming time, and to shift the whole procedure from a category of work to one of fun. I'm no devotee of the do-it-the-hard-way school. In exercising, for instance, I've found I accomplish no more by strenuous gruntand - groan techniques than I do by my own relaxed methods.

My exercise is dancing — to good records on the phonograph. By good, I mean discs that are appropriate to the particular step I'm in the mood for, and those that have a strong, pronounced rhythm which will draw me out of myself and into the spirit of the dance. These may be classics, Spanish flamenco records, modern jazz or whatever.

Of course, I've studied dancing, but any woman can adapt this system to her own needs. Just get the music going and make up your own movements as you go along. Make sure you use your arms, legs, torso — all the muscles of your body.
I've simplified my make-up, too. Instead of dragging a whole collection of bottles and jars around in my hatbox, I've settled for two basic shades of foundation—a light and a dark one.

I blend these in my palm to create the exact shade a particular costume or situation calls for. This way, there's no frantic rush to the cosmetic counter everytime the seasons change or a photographer tries a new lighting.

Hair upkeep can be terrific both if you're a slave to the nightly pin curl system. To avoid this, I've worked out my own pet trick which should work for almost any woman with a fair amount of natural curl or permanent in her hair.
Rather than sleeping with bobbin pins or curlers on my head, I arise each morning and comb in carefully. Then I lock waves and curls into place with metal clamps.

I leave them in during my bath and breakfast, removing them just before I set out for my first booking of the day. This brief, uncomplicated "setting" is all that's required to keep my tresses in order. I've applied this same simplified technique to my wardrobe, too. Instead of having a whole closetful of seldom - used clothes, I try to have fewer, but more adaptable, costumes.
My favorite idea of this sort is a convertible gown for after - five wear. I had an ice - blue satin dress made up in a mid-calf length for late day wear.
To transform it into an instep-length formal, I simply snap on a deep cuff of matching satin around the hemline. This cuff is useful as a stole, too, when I'm wearing the dress in its abbreviated form.

Go Ahead And Freeze Pile

Written for NEA Service
This business of being a card authority sometimes gets me into more trouble than I've bargained for. People write to me from various parts of the world with a touching confidence in my ability to understand any language.

For example, a letter from Sherbrooke, Quebec, asks me in French whether or not it is permissible to freeze the pack before both sides have had their initial meld. What with a dictionary and my memories of schoolboy French of some thirty-odd years ago, I managed to work out what was being asked. But I'll be darned if I can answer it in French, outside of saying "Mais, oui."

In plain American, that means "Go right ahead and freeze the pile, if you want to. You don't have to wait until any initial meld has been made." Isn't it wonderful how just two words of French means all of that?

I can see why the newcomer to Canasta finds this situation a bit puzzling. Until your side has made its initial meld, you cannot take the discard pile except with a matching pair of natural cards. (and, of course, the full count. See the beginner asks, why would your opponent bother to freeze the pack before you have melded? You need a pair of natural cards in any case.

This is perfectly true, but it is still sometimes wise to freeze the pack before your opponents have made their first meld. For example, suppose both sides need 120 points. Each player makes five or six safe discards, so that the pile is well worth struggling for. You draw from the stock pile and hold the following 12 cards:

Joker-Joker-Joker 7-7 6-6
5-5 4-4 2

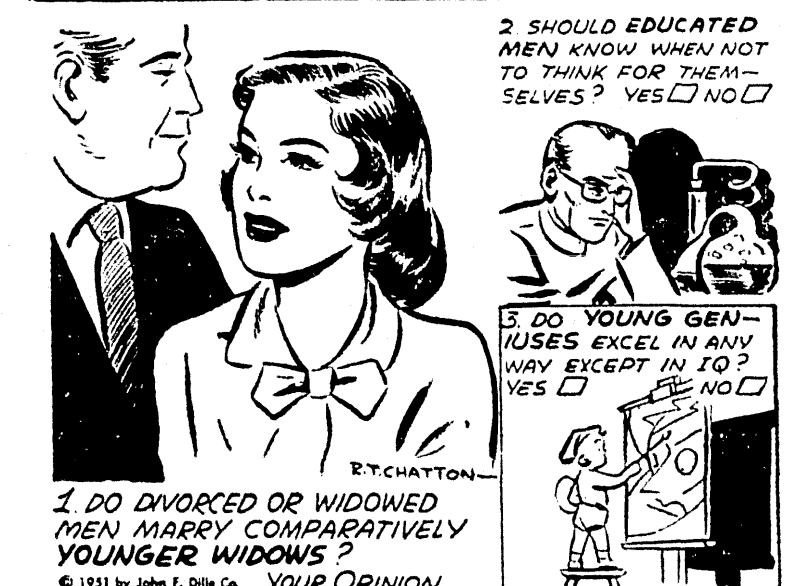

This is a dream hand, of course. It's a cinch that a low card will be thrown to you very soon—provided that the pack isn't given away in the meantime by your partner. You can well afford to throw the deuce, freezing the pack.

You don't really care about freezing the pack, of course. Your chief purpose is to warn your partner to play as safely as possible, and your secondary purpose is to make a safe discard of your own.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. S.

Answer To Question No. 1

1. Widowed men, apparently Yale sociologist August Hollingshead has found that divorced men who marry a woman previously married, do so at around the age of 35 years. The wife tends to be only 2 years their junior—around 33. Men widowed by death, of course, average much older—around 60. When they marry a widow, they tend to choose a mate around 52—or 8 years younger than themselves.

Answer To Question No. 2

2. Yes. As the late psychologist E. L. Thorndyke said, one mark of an educated man is that he knows when not to think of himself and when to get a wiser man to think for him. Jesus had this man in mind when He said: "Whosoever, intending to build a tower, sitteth not down first, and counteth the cost, whether he have sufficient to finish it?"

Answer To Question No. 3

3. Yes. Stanford University psychologist L. M. Terman had teachers rate boys on 12 personality traits. The gifted ones rated higher, on the average, in every trait but two—leadership and popularity. In these they were similar to average boys. But they rated higher in perseverance, desire to excel, freedom of vanity, sympathy, conscientiousness, desire to know, originality, general intelligence, and common sense.

'UNCLE SAM' GOES HOME
Brownsville, Tex. — Uncle Sam is going back home to Oslo, Norway for the first time in 51 years.

This Uncle Sam is Sam Naumann, custodian of the Cameron County courthouse for the past 13 years, and he'll be wearing high-heeled boots and a 10-zallon hat like a true Texan when this son of Norway steps off the plane in Oslo.

After working three years in South Africa Sam got excited about the United States and set sail in 1903. The ship was wrecked in a gulf storm and Sam was washed ashore at Mobile, Ala. He later went to Texas and helped in the construction of Rice Institute and also the courthouse of which he is custodian.

Officials were somewhat surprised when Sam asked for a leave to go back home. He had never taken a day off in 13 years.

Korea Is Million Miles Away From Home To GI Worriers-And All of Them Worry

By John Chabot Smith

With The Eighth Army in Korea (NEA)—It's half-way around the world from here to home, but it sometimes seems as though home is further off than the moon.

It doesn't take long to send a cable any place, but you can't send a cable from the front and if you did the answer would take a long time getting back.

Even if the army let you use the field telephone to call home, you wouldn't hear anything from the other end and nobody at home could hear you. The field telephones run on batteries and the lines straggle through the mud, draped over bushes, and dunked in puddles. Anyhow, there are too many switchboards to go through.

Home is a million miles away, no less and maybe more, no matter what they say about the size of the earth. Airmail is pretty good but a lot can happen between APO San Francisco and the top of a hill in Korea. Letters arrive in batches, some fresh and some old; sometimes they don't arrive at all.

If you're worried about some thing it may be ancient history before you get an answer to your letter. If Mom writes to say Pa isn't feeling too good, you don't know whether he's dead or all right again by the time you get the letter.

There's nothing like worry. Everybody hates it but everybody does it. Nine times out of ten the worry is wasted; either it doesn't happen at all or if it does it isn't as bad as you thought it would be. Everybody knows that, but everybody worries just the same.

Take the case of Pfc. Alphonse Urpiss, 23, of Newark, N. J. He worried about his mother's physical condition; he didn't think she ought to work and he wanted to get her a Class Q allotment. In this way the government would contribute directly to her support in addition to the money Pfc. Urpiss sends out of his own salary.

Any soldier's wife is eligible for a Q allotment, but a GI's parent is eligible only if he can show that he contributed at least 50 per cent of the parent's support before he entered the army.

Pfc. Urpiss didn't know that. On top of that his mail was slowed up because he was moved so many times. For three months he received no pay. He got a letter saying his mother had received nothing either.

Pfc. Urpiss couldn't find out what was going on. He wrote to President Truman and got a form letter in reply. He asked the American Red Cross to investigate and he got an answer: Your Q allotment is denied, your mother will only get what you give her from your own salary. However, your mother is well, she has a part-time job, your sister is helping support her, you have nothing to worry about.

No job is more frustrating than the job of delivering such messages to unhappy men and trying to make them understand. Leonard Whittingham, the Red Cross assistant field director who worked on this case, hates Q allotment problems worse than enemy shell-fire.

More often the Red Cross is asked to investigate situations where there is really no cause for worry at all.

A father of identical twins saw a newspaper photograph of the two boys as they came off the combat line, all dirty and unshaven. The picture was taken as they came out of combat, so the danger was over; but the father reported that "in the picture these men looked so terrible the family is almost frantic with worry." The wives of both men were pregnant.

WHITNEY MAN SHILL-ERIE to Leonard J. Whittingham (center), of Tampa, Fla., assistant Red Cross field director, are the allotment problems he's called on to solve in Korea. Here he thrashes out a family worry with Cpl. George H. Oduoyi (center) of Prague, Neb., and Pfc. Wayne Watson, Canby, Ore.

Red Cross A. F. D. Donald Bontrou found the men and talked to them. Both were in fine shape, health and morale excellent, concerned only in which of their children would be born first.

Sometimes, of course, the cause of worry is real, and an emergency leave or hardship discharge is arranged for a serviceman who is needed at home. In these cases the Red Cross acts as the investigating agency for the army, interviewing the family at home to determine if the need is real. The investigation may be started at the request of the family or of the serviceman himself by asking the field director attached to his unit.

Any GI resents being told that his wife or mother has called in the Red Cross to find out why he hasn't written home. There has never been a GI who didn't answer such a question by saying "I just wrote." But they are always glad to see the Red Cross man come around with stationery for them.

It takes a strong man with field training to shoulder a 60-pound bag of stationery and other useful odds and ends and climb with it up almost vertical slopes to the front-line units.

Such a man is Edward Dietrich, a red-haired Texan now working with the Red Cross for the same division in which he fought during World War II.

He is a long-legged six-footer who isn't afraid of enemy fire and often leaves his helmet in his tent, contrary to regulations, so as to have that much less weight to carry up the mountainside. The mountains in Korea are real mountains; and the trenches and dugouts are at the top, where you can see what you are shooting at.

Red Cross passes out two or three thousand envelopes a day, with paper to match, plus razors, combs, pencils, playing cards, magazines, soap and so on. The line is fairly stabilized now, and the army gets the cigarettes and candy bars delivered fairly well, along with hot chow twice a day when operations permit.

But writing paper, razors, combs and pencils are quickly lost in combat, and the GI can't leave his post and go down the hill to get new ones. The playing cards and magazines while away the hours when the Chinese don't happen to be shooting and some other unit is doing the patrolling.

A little comfort and a little thoughtfulness go a long way when it's all you've got. And it keeps men's minds off their worries, real or otherwise.

Keep Lead Away From Opponent

By Oswald Jacoby

South played today's hand on the theory that East had to be kept out of the lead. He had the right idea, since East would have been delighted to win a trick and return the queen of clubs through South's king.

West opened the ten of diamonds, and dummy won with the ace. Declarer cashed the ace and king of spades and entered dummy with the nine of hearts to lead the jack of spades. When East played low, South discarded his remaining diamond.

West won with the queen of spades and returned his last spade to allow East to ruff out dummy's ten. South over - ruffed and entered dummy with the ten of hearts to lead the queen of diamonds through East.

East put up the king of diamonds hopefully, but South ruffed. Deand was sure of losing no more than two club tricks.

South's play of the hand was not only an example of keeping the dangerous opponent (East) out of the lead, but also showed careful management of trump entries. If South had drawn even one round of trumps before beginning the spades, he would have been set.

For example, suppose South takes one round of trumps at the second trick, and then cashes the ace and king of spades. He must then enter dummy with the ten of hearts to lead the jack of spades. West wins the queen of spades, as before, and returns a spade to allow East to ruff.

South can over ruff and enter dummy once more with the queen of hearts to lead the queen of diamonds. But when South then ruffs out the king of diamonds, he cannot get back to dummy for the purpose of cashing the jack of diamonds. This line of play obliges him to lead clubs eventually from his own hand—in which case the defenders can take three club tricks.

CARD SENSE

Q—The bidding has been: South West, North, East, 1 Spade, Pass, 1 N. T., Pass, 2.

You South, hold: Spades A K J-3-2, Hearts A-K-J-3, Diamonds Q-J-7, Club 9. What do you do?

A—Bid three hearts. You are willing to force to game inasmuch as your partner had enough for some sort of response. You are willing to play for game in spades if North has three small cards in the suit; or in hearts, if your partner has any four hearts; otherwise in no-trump.

TO DAY'S QUESTION

The bidding is the same as in the question just answered. You, South, hold: Spades A-K-J-3-2, Hearts A-K-J-3, Diamonds Q-J-7, Clubs A-J-5. What do you bid?

MAID CONFESSES TO CHECK HIKES

New York, Dec. 15. — Tallulah Bankhead's former personal maid admitted today she kited the actress' checks—but said her mistress authorized it.

The admission came through Fred G. Moritt, defense attorney for 59-year-old Mrs. Evelyn R. Cronin, on trial on 32 counts of forgery and grand larceny.

"I tell you now that it was Mrs. Cronin who raised this check," said Moritt, waving it in front of the all-male jury. "She raised all these checks."

Miss Bankhead evaded a lineup of curious corridor spectators and slipped into criminal court building by a side door to await her call to the witness stand.

The actress—along with other spectators—was barred from the courtroom Wednesday.

Moritt's vigorous cross-examination of a state witness drew a contempt threat at one point from general sessions Judge Harold L. Stevens.

It was during the cross examination that Moritt admitted Mrs. Cronin doctored checks while she was Miss Bankhead's personal maid and secretary. The white-haired hoover, lost her job when the check hiking case broke last year.

Moritt asked the court to instruct the jury that check raising is forgery "unless it is done under the authority of the person who issued the checks."

Judge Stevens refused, however. The defense attorney gave no clue as to why a person would want his own checks raised, rather than writing them out originally for a greater amount.

The defense has said Mrs. Cronin paid for "marijuana cigarettes, cocaine, booze and sex" for Miss Bankhead—a charge indignantly denied by the husky - voiced star of stage and radio.

However, Bernard Dolgin, a district attorney's accountant, said yesterday Mrs. Cronin told him just the opposite, that she never spent money for dope, champagne or lovin' for Miss Bankhead.

Dolgin was on the stand again today. He said the dope, booze, and sex issue was raised by Asst. Dist. Atty. Joseph Stone when he first questioned Mrs. Cronin.

Asked defense Attorney Moritt: "What prompted Mr. Stone to ask a woman who had been brought in for questioning about checks to explain about dope, cocaine or marijuana?"

"I'm afraid you'll have to ask Mr. Stone," replied Dolgin. "Did Mr. Stone get a complaint from Miss Bankhead?"

"I cannot answer that," Dolgin said.

"Do you know if it originated in newspaper columns or through Miss Bankhead going to the district attorney's office?" Moritt went on.

"I don't know," the witness answered.

While the courtroom drama was unfolding, a golf pro at Derby, Conn., said he married the defendant, Mrs. Cronin, in 1909 and "she is still my wife as far as I know."

He is Billy Pruecel, a one-time vaudeville dancer, like Mrs. Cronin. Mrs. Cronin told newsmen at the trial that she was, indeed, married to Pruecel in 1909 but that she divorced him 10 years later.

CONGRESSMAN LATE FOR TEA

Singapore — A group of American congressmen passing through Singapore almost missed tea at the University of Malaya.

They arrived 80 minutes late—just as the tea and cakes were being removed from the tables. The party was given in their honor by Dr. G. V. Allen, vice - chancellor of the university.

The congressmen said their transport failed to show up at the hotel. The congressmen are members of a house expenditures subcommittee and are travelling around the world to investigate problems arising from the flow of supplies to American bases. They are headed by Rep. Herbert C. Bonner (D-N. C.)

F. L. Hearne, pastor.
J. O. Fleming, church school superintendent.
A shepherd and his son were standing on a hill overlooking a vast expanse of land. As they looked over the area reaching to the north, south, east and west, the shepherd said to his boy, "That's just like the love of God - so vast that it reaches everywhere." "Then, father," exclaimed the lad, "we must be in the very middle of that love."
How right both were. The love of God is both expansive and intensive. It reaches everywhere, and it encompasses each of us in his own individual life.

Where Were You?

I came to your Church Last Sunday,
I walked up and down the aisle,
"I noticed Your Seat was vacant,"
Said the master with kindly smile

"Yes, I was at home," I answered,
Some folks from up Salem way
Drove down for a week - end visit
So we stayed in the house all day."

Or, "I had an awful headache,"
"I had a roast in the pan,"
"Or we overslept that morning,
But I go whenever I can."

The Master gazed at me sadly,
As he was about to speak,
"My child," he replied, "are there not Six other days in the week?"
I saw I had grieved my Master,
As slowly he turned away,
And I vowed he'd not find me absent
Again on his Holy Day!

JACK WILLIS TO BE CANDIDATE

Well Known Business Man Seeks Seat In Lower House

Jack Willis, candidate for state representative from Ouachita parish in the forthcoming democratic primary, to be held in January, lives at 101 Browning street, West Monroe, La. He was born and reared in Ruston, La., and moved to Monroe in 1930. He is married to the former Maida McClendon, who teaches in the Ouachita parish school system of West Monroe.

Mr. Willis has been in the floor covering business for the past several years and is presently one of the owners of the Kool-Vent Aluminum Awning Company, 917 Louisville Avenue, Monroe, La.

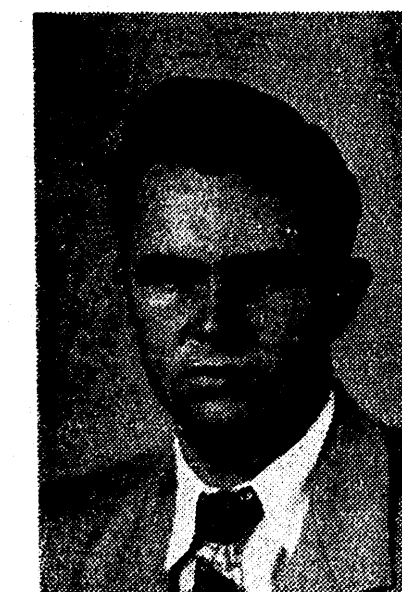

Mr. Willis is well known to a large circle of friends and associates throughout Ouachita parish and is familiarly known throughout this area as "Jack."

He was a member of the Louisiana National Guard ten years prior to World War No. 2 and served in the army five years during World War No. 2, serving in England, France, Luxembourg, Belgium and Germany and is a recipient of six battle participation stars, namely, ground combat of England, Normandy, Ardennes, northern France, Rhineland, and central Europe. He is a member of the Ouachita Cattleman Association and the Louisiana Wildlife Federation. He is a member of the First Methodist Church of West Monroe.

Mr. Willis is active in everything in Ouachita parish pertaining to the upbuilding of this community and, if elected, pledges himself to render every possible service to Ouachita parish. He is especially interested in the further development of Northeast College, both academically and athletically. He is unalterably opposed to additional taxes, state and local, and believe that in strict economy in state government that taxes could, and should, be reduced.

He seeks the office of parish representative on a strictly independent vote and is not aligned with any political faction whatsoever.

Millsaps School P.-T. A. Has Meeting

One of the largest groups ever to assemble in the history of the Millsaps Parent-Teacher Association was present at the December meeting of the organization on Thursday, December 13. The group met for the first time in the spacious new lunchroom auditorium that was completed recently.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. C. H. Jordan. After a brief business session the program chairman, Mrs. Carl Metcalf, and the teachers presented a Christmas program in which each grade had a part.

The program was as follows: A song skit — Christmas Bells — by the second and third grades; two songs — "Up on the House Top" and "Jolly Old St. Nicholas" by the first grade; a group of songs including "O Come Little Children," "Little Pine Tree," and "Festival of Light," by the fourth grade; "Here We Come A Caroling," by fifth grade; Christmas carols including "Jingle Bells," "Silent Night," and "Away in a Manger," by the seventh grade; the first Christmas story by the sixth grade; and a pantomime entitled, "Little John's Christmas," by the eighth grade.

The room count was won by Mrs. Helen Orris, third grade room.

Gold is found in a free, or pure, state.

The program concluded with the group singing "Silent Night" with Ida Lee Anzelmo at the piano.

The biology class enjoyed a winter field day on Wednesday, December 12. Leaving the school a little before noon, the class motored out some distance on Highway 80, going west and took advantage of the beautiful front yard of Mrs. Ralph Norman to indulge in a quick picnic lunch. They then traveled still further along a neighborhood road and back into the beautiful woods nearby where they parked their cars and scattered among the pine trees and oaks to study the many winter gifts of nature that are in abundance there. Specimens of holly, fir, cedar, pine, red bandberry and even mistletoe were brought back to the laboratory for further study.

TURN BACK, SPUD! THOSE EAGLE MEN ARE COMING TOWARD THE ENTRANCE TO THIS TUNNEL!

I HOPE WE DON'T RUN INTO THE WITCH DOCTOR!

HERE IS THE TUNNEL WHERE NOTA LEFT US!

SHE WENT IN THAT DIRECTION!

HEY! LOOK! DAYLIGHT!

THERE ARE THREE EAGLE MEN STATIONED OUT THERE WATCHING THE CANYON BELOW!

GOSH! LOOK!

IF WE JUMP THEM, MAYBE WE CAN CLIMB DOWN INTO THE CANYON AND TAKE COVER UNTIL TONIGHT!

IT'S A BETTER CHANCE THAN FOLLOWING THESE TUNNELS, NOT KNOWING WHERE THEY LEAD TO!

WE'D BETTER DECIDE... I CAN HEAR THE WITCH DOCTOR AND HIS MEN COMING BEHIND US!

COME ON! LET'S TAKE 'EM!

FLASH GORDON®

by Mac Raboy and Don Moore

LINC ACCIDENTALLY UNLEASHES ONE OF MARS' SECRET WEAPONS -- A HORDE OF HUNGRY OMNIVORS THAT EAT ANYTHING FROM MEAT TO METAL. ONE EVEN DEVOURS THE LADDER ON WHICH FLASH AND DALE ARE FLEEING!

SCRAMBLING TO MOMENTARY SAFETY ON A HIGH PLATFORM, MENTA AND THE EARTH PEOPLE WATCH IN HORROR AS THE OMNIVORS TRY TO REACH THEIR PERCH. THE FRIGHTENED QUEEN SREAMS A COMMAND TO THE GUARDS: "OPEN THE LIQUID-OXYGEN JETS! IT'S OUR ONLY CHANCE!"

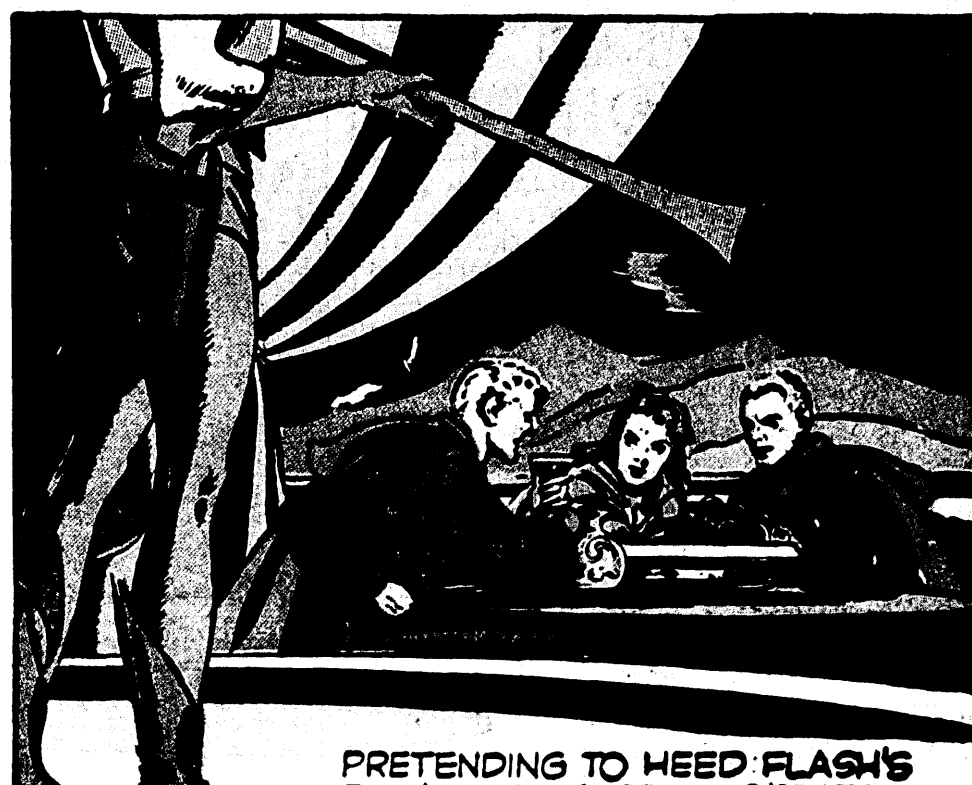

IN A FEW SECONDS THE STREAMS OF OXYGEN CASCADE DOWN ON THE RAVENOUS MONSTERS, FREEZING THEM INTO EERIE STATUES. THE DANGER PAST, MENTA TURNS ON LINC. "YOU'VE SEEN HOW TO OVERCOME THE OMNIVORS," SHE SAYS. "BUT I WARN YOU, IT WILL DO YOU NO GOOD!"

FLASH INTERRUPTS MENTA'S TIRADE. "DON'T UNDERESTIMATE US EARTHMEN," HE SAYS GRIMLY. "IF YOUR SCIENTISTS COULD PERFECT A DEFENSE AGAINST THOSE MONSTERS, OURS CAN, TOO. GIVE UP YOUR DREAM OF CONQUERING THE EARTH. LET OUR PLANETS LIVE IN PEACE!"

Copyright 1951, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.

PRETENDING TO HEED FLASH'S PLEA, MENTA SPEEDS THE EARTH PEOPLE BACK TO HER PALACE. AS SOON AS THEY ARE ALONE, FLASH WHISPERS TO DALE AND LINC: "SHE'LL NEVER LET US LEAVE MARS ALIVE WITH THE SECRET OF THOSE LIQUID-OXYGEN JETS! WE'VE GOT TO OUTWIT HER!"
